Constitutional Provisions

Cal. Const., art. I, § 3 9

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 This Motion concerns Defendants’ responses to Plaintiffs’ Special Interrogatory (“SI”)
3 Nos. 25, 29, and 30. Because Defendants’ responses are improperly evasive and their boilerplate 4 objections are without merit, this Motion should be granted.

5 II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

6 A. Factual Background of this Case

7 This case concerns the California Department of Justice’s (the “Department”) use of 8 money collected under the guise of the Dealers’ Record of Sale (“DROS”) fee and placed in the 9 DROS Special Account. (Compl. ¶ 1.) The Department uses money from the DROS Special 10 Account to fund law enforcement activities based on data produced by the Armed and Prohibited 11 Person System (“APPS”¹), e.g., special agents traveling to a residence to seize firearms from a 12 person identified by way of APPS. (Id. ¶¶ 6-7.) And yet, it appears the Defendants are using 13 DROS fee money to fund general law enforcement activities that are, at most, tangentially related 14 to APPS.² Plaintiffs claim, among other things, that the Department has failed to properly set the 15 amount of the DROS fee and that the Department is illegally imposing a tax via the DROS fee.
16 (Id. ¶¶ 96,110.)

17 B. History of the Current Discovery Dispute

18 Plaintiffs served a third set of SIs on Defendants on September 4, 2015. (Declaration of 19 Scott M. Franklin in Support of Motion to Compel Further Responses to Special Interrogatories, 20 Set Three, Propounded on Defendants Kamala Harris and Stephen Lindley [the “Franklin Decl.”] 21 ¶ 2.) Pursuant to a courtesy extension granted by Plaintiffs, Defendants provided responses on 22 October 19, 2015. (Id. ¶ 3.) Soon thereafter, Plaintiffs’ counsel evaluated the responses and 23 determined them to be insufficient, and accordingly, he sent a letter to Defendants’ counsel on 24 December 14, 2015, explaining in detail how the responses provided were insufficient. (Id. ¶ 4.)
25 Counsel for the parties telephonically discussed the sufficiency of Defendants’ responses on 26

27 ¹ The APPS database is derived by cross-checking certain governmental records 28 with the intent of identifying people who obtained a firearm legally but then kept the firearm after becoming legally ineligible to do so. (Compl. ¶ 66.)

² See supra Section III.B.

1 December 16, 2016, and Defendants’ counsel ultimately agreed to consider providing amended
2 responses. (Id. ¶ 5.)

3 On January 22, 2016, Defendants provided an amended response to relevant discovery.
4 (Franklin Decl. ¶ 6.) And on January 29, 2016, Defendants provided a second amended response 5 to the relevant discovery. (Id. ¶ 7.) Nonetheless, Plaintiffs thereafter still believed Defendants had 6 not properly responded to several SIs, so Plaintiffs’ counsel sent a second meet-and-confer letter
7 to Defendants counsel on February 19, 2016. (Id. ¶ 8.) Defendants provided a third amended 8 response to the relevant discovery on March 25, 2016. (Id. ¶ 9.) As a result of the parties good 9 faith meet-and-confer efforts, all of Defendants’ disputed responses have been resolved except the 10 three that are the basis for this Motion. (Id. ¶ 10.) The Motion was filed within forty-five days of 11 the production of Defendants’ most recent response, and the parties have also agreed in writing to 12 a filing deadline of April 25, 2016, so this Motion is timely under Code of Civil Procedure section 13 2030.300, subdivision (c). (Id. ¶ 11.)

14 III. ARGUMENT

15 A. Standard for Compelling Further Responses to Interrogatories

16 “On receipt of a response to interrogatories, the propounding party may move for an order 17 compelling a further response if the propounding party deems that [the] answer to a particular 18 interrogatory is evasive or incomplete [or if a]n objection to an interrogatory is without merit or 19 too general.” (Code Civ. Proc., § 2030.300, subd. (a)(1)-(3).)³ Evasive and incomplete 20 interrogatory responses violate the responding party’s duty to provide responses that are “as 21 complete and straightforward as the information reasonably available to the responding party 22 permits.” (§ 2030.220(a); accord Guzman v. General Motors Corp. (1984) 154 Cal.App.3d 438, 23 442 [noting a responding party must “state the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth in 24 answering written interrogatories”].)

1 B. Defendants Should Not be Allowed to Publically Tout Specific Cases as “APPS
2 Cases” without the Basis of Such Claim Being Subject to Reasonable Discovery

3 1. Background About the So-Called “APPS Cases” and Why the Department’s
4 Statements About them Are Relevant

5 The Department’s 2013-2014 Biennial Report⁴ includes a list of a dozen “[s]ignificant 6 APPS cases[.]” (Franklin Decl. ¶ 12.) Some of the cases on the list appear to be within a 7 reasonable understanding of the term “APPS case[.]” e.g., when Department agents investigated 8 an APPS subject who had a prohibiting event (an involuntary mental health commitment) and 9 sixty-six handguns registered in his name, resulting in the seizure of over 200 firearms, that 10 definitely appears to be an “APPS case.” (Ibid.) But the majority of the cases on the list, as 11 described, do not appear to have any reasonable connection to APPS. (Ibid.) If non-APPS cases 12 are being funded via the DROS fee, or non-APPS cases are being portrayed as APPS successes to 13 justify spending DROS fee money on APPS, either would be relevant to how the Department is 14 obtaining and using money from the DROS Special Account—the core issue in this Action.
(Compl. ¶¶ 95-100, passim.)

15 In light of the apparent disconnect between the so-called “APPS cases” and the 16 implementation of APPS, Defendants propounded interrogatories seeking an explanation as to 17 why two specific “APPS cases[.]” as described, have no connection to APPS. As to SI No. 29, 18 that “APPS case” was not based on a “hit” in the APPS system being investigated, it resulted 19 from an anonymous tip that a felon was working at a shooting range. (Sep. Statement at p. 4.) The 20 fact that a felon worked at a shooting range does not implicate APPS at all; in fact, nothing in the 21 description of this “APPS case” refers to the Department removing firearms identified via APPS
22 from the felon. (Id. at pp. 4-5)

23 Similarly, in SI No. 30 the “APPS case” concerned an alleged “straw purchase” whereby a 24 non-prohibited person legally bought a firearm and then provided that firearm to a prohibited 25 person. (Id. at p. 5.) Again, as described, this activity has nothing to do with APPS. The firearm 26 that was the subject of the alleged straw purchase would not have given a “hit” as to the alleged 27 straw purchaser, as he was not the recorded purchaser. If the Department was specifically 28 ⁴ The Department is statutorily required to provide a “written report of its activities” to the Governor every other year. (Gov. Code, § 11091.)

1 following up on the straw purchase, then by definition, APPS was not involved, as it was the legal 2 purchaser, not the intended ultimate recipient (the prohibited person), that was “associated” with 3 the relevant firearm in the firearm transfer records cross-checked via APPS.

4 During the meet-and-confer process, Plaintiffs’ counsel indicated that, if the “APPS cases” 5 discussed in SI Nos. 29 and 30 were ongoing, that might impact the analysis of whether 6 information related thereto was privileged under Evidence Code section 1040. (Franklin Decl.
7 ¶ 8.) Defendants’ counsel responded that “the investigations referred to in those interrogatories 8 are not ongoing[, but that n]evertheless, [D]efendants stand on their objections.” (Ibid.)

9 2. Defendants’ Boilerplate Objections Are Without Merit

10 Defendants provided the same objections to Interrogatories No. 29 and 30, viz., that the 11 information sought is irrelevant, and they conflict with the work product doctrine and the 12 attorney-client, official information, law enforcement, and executive privileges. (Sep. Statement 13 at pp. 4-5). In reality, these objections boil down to a relevancy-based objection (which is clearly 14 defeated infra in Section III.B.2.iii.) and: (1) an attorney-client privilege-based objection, (2) an 15 attorney work product doctrine-based objection, and (3) an Evidence Code section 1040 official 16 information-based objection. (See Marylander v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1119, 17 1126 [re-affirming that, in litigation, Evidence Code section 1040 “represents the exclusive means 18 by which a public entity may assert a . . . privilege based on the necessity for secrecy”].) The 19 objections are all unfounded and should be ignored.

20 i. Defendants’ Attorney-Client Privilege Claim Is Without Merit

21 California Evidence Code section 954 states that a client may refuse to disclose (1) 22 confidential communications (2) between the client and the attorney. Evidence Code section 954 23 only applies to communications; the attorney-client privilege does not apply to facts, even if the 24 facts are mentioned in, or relevant to, an attorney-client communication. (See Benge v. Superior 25 Court (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 336, 349.) Furthermore, the privilege does not apply to 26 communications between an attorney and a client regarding business advice, i.e., advice outside 27 the normal scope of legal services provided by an attorney. (See Costco Wholesale Corp. v.
28 Superior Court (2009) 47 Cal.4th 725, 735.) Finally, the privilege does not apply to where it has

1 been waived by the disclosure of a significant part of the relevant communication. (Evid. Code, § 2 912(a); see Southern Cal. Gas Co. v. California Pub. Util. Com. (1990) 50 C.3d 31, 46 [holding 3 that a “significant part” means disclosure of enough substantive information as to reveal the 4 specific content of the alleged confidential communication].)

5 Defendants’ bare attorney-client objection fails on its face, as Defendants provide no
6 factual information as to how the information sought falls within Evidence Code section 954’s
7 definition of attorney-client communications. On the other hand, the Biennial Report’s discussion 8 of “APPS cases” provides sufficient evidence that Defendants’ attorney-client objection must fail.

9 First, there is no dispute that the Department made factual statements identifying that the 10 two cases at issue are “APPS cases.” Disclosure of the facts upon which those statements were 11 made—if any—does not require the disclosure of any communication, even assuming the relevant 12 facts were discussed as part of an attorney-client communication. (Benge, supra, 131 Cal.App.3d 13 at 349.) “[T]he attorney-client privilege only protects disclosure of communications between the 14 attorney and the client; it does not protect disclosure of underlying facts which may be referenced 15 within a qualifying communication.” (State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 16 54 Cal.App.4th 625, 639.) Indeed, if these two cases were truly “APPS cases,” then (1) the 17 information analysts who processed the relevant APPS data after a “hit,” and (2) the special 18 agents who did the fieldwork described in the Biennial Report would all be privy to the relevant 19 facts without any communication with a Department lawyer. (See Compl. ¶¶ 66, 68 [discussing 20 how APPS works and that how law enforcement uses certain funds on APPS-related law 21 enforcement activities].) That is, the pertinent information would exist outside any attorney-client 22 communication wherein the information was discussed. The Department does not get to cloak this 23 operational information in the attorney-client privilege just because the information may have 24 been known to an attorney in the Department. (See Costco Wholesale Corp. v. Superior Court, 25 supra, 47 Cal.4th at 735.)

26 Second, the publication of the fact that a case is an “APPS case” requires no legal advice, 27 so Defendants’ attorney-client privilege claim is dubious. Whether or not the two salient cases 28 were based on, or somehow used, APPS data is not a question that an attorney would have an

1 answer to, at least not an answer that is dependent upon the attorney’s attorney-client relationship
2 with a client. Thus, if this matter somehow turns on advice provided by an attorney (and Plaintiffs 3 contend it does not), that advice would concern the business of law enforcement based on the use 4 of APPS data, which is outside the scope of Evidence Code section 954’s protection.

5 Third, it was Defendants who opened this discussion by claiming the germane cases are 6 “APPS cases.” The Department’s decision to identify specific matters as “APPS cases” occurred
7 voluntarily and completely outside the scope of litigation. Further, there is only one reasonable 8 way to define the term “APPS case” as it relates to law enforcement activities: the investigation 9 and potential seizure of firearms from people who are identified as armed and prohibited via the 10 operation of APPS. Accordingly, unless Defendants can convincingly argue that “APPS case” has 11 some other reasonable definition, Defendants have already made a “significant part” of the 12 relevant information public, i.e., they stated the “APPS cases” were APPS cases. Whatever 13 attorney-client privilege that might have applied regarding how the “APPS cases” were 14 characterized vanished when the Department publically identified them as “APPS cases.” (Evid.
15 Code, § 912(a).)

16 Because the attorney-client privilege is not applicable to SI Nos. 29 and 30 for the reasons 17 stated above, Defendants’ objection fails.

18 ii. Application of the Attorney Work Product Doctrine will Unjustly Stymie
19 Legitimate Discovery

20 California’s attorney work product doctrine, codified in Code of Civil Procedure section 21 2018.020, states the general policy protecting an attorney’s work product from being unfairly 22 exposed. The doctrine provides absolute protection for an attorney’s “brain work” (e.g., opinions, 23 conclusions, impressions), but for other attorney work product, like notes of a witness interview, 24 such material can be obtained upon a showing “that denial of discovery will unfairly prejudice the 25 party seeking discovery in preparing that party’s claim or defense or will result in an injustice.” 26 (§ 2018.030.) The information sought in SI Nos. 29 and 30 cannot justifiably be withheld under 27 either aspect of the attorney work product doctrine.

28 ///

1 The information sought is clearly not attorney “brain work.” Plaintiffs seek information
2 about how APPS data was used, if at all, in two specific “APPS cases.” Whether or not a 3 particular investigation resulted from the processing of a specific APPS “hit” is a matter of fact, 4 not “brain work,” and thus, the information sought is not protected under the first class of 5 information identified in section 2018.020.

6 As to the second class of information described supra at Section II.A., attorneys are not 7 part of the APPS process, so there is no inherent reason why Department attorneys would have the 8 information sought. Regardless, if an attorney somehow generated work product that provides the 9 information sought, that information would have been obtained directly from data processing staff 10 or the law enforcement agents who were actually involved in the field work described in the 11 Biennial Report. Therefore, assuming the information sought actually exists, only two scenarios 12 are possible regarding non-“brain work” attorney work product: (1) Defendants are aware of the 13 original source of the information sought, but they are knowingly not identifying that source, or 14 (2) the only source of the information sought is attorney work product. Either way, the second 15 work product doctrine does not protect the information sought, for at least two reasons.

16 First, as Plaintiffs seek only non-derivative information (i.e., Plaintiffs do not want 17 anything an attorney reasonably had a hand in creating), the attorney work product doctrine does 18 not reach the information sought. (Cf. Southern Pac. Co. v. Superior Court, (1969) 3 Cal.App.3d 19 195, 198-199 [“The facts sought, those presently relied upon by plaintiffs to prove their case, are 20 discoverable no matter how they came into the attorney’s possession.”].) Second, even if the 21 foregoing is incorrect, there is no adequate substitute for the information sought, and the 22 Department is presumably the only source for the salient information. Because the information 23 sought will tend to prove or disprove an important issue in this case—i.e., whether the 24 Department is spending funds for general law enforcement activities but accounting for them as if 25 they were APPS-related—Plaintiffs can meet the burden to overcome the conditional privilege 26 stated in section 2018.030. If the Department can publically state that non-APPS cases are 27 actually APPS cases but Plaintiffs are denied very narrow discovery regarding that issue, “that 28 denial of discovery will unfairly prejudice the party seeking discovery in preparing that party’s

1 claim or defense or will result in an injustice.” (§ 2018.030, subd. (b).) Accordingly, the work
2 product doctrine provides no basis upon which Defendants can avoid producing the salient 3 information.

4 iii. No Governmental Privilege Justifies Defendants’ Attempt to Withhold the 5 Information Sought

6 Defendants’ official information, law enforcement, and executive privilege objections are 7 all subject to the same standard of review, which is found in Evidence Code section 1040. (See 8 County of Orange v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal.App. 4th 759, 765-768 [evaluating law 9 enforcement’s claim of privilege regarding investigative file for an active murder investigation 10 under Evidence Code section 1040]; Marylander, supra, 81 Cal.App.4th at p. 1125 [using the 11 standard set forth in Evidence Code section 1040 to evaluate claims made under the common law 12 privilege known as the executive or deliberative process privilege].) Evidence Code section 1040 13 states, in pertinent part, that

14 [a] public entity has a privilege to refuse to disclose official information [if 15 d]isclosure of the information is against the public interest because there is a 16 necessity for preserving the confidentiality of the information that outweighs the 17 necessity for disclosure in the interest of justice. . . . In determining whether disclosure of the information is against the public interest, the interest of the public entity as a party in the outcome of the proceeding may not be considered.

18 (Evid. Code, § 1040, subd. (b).)

19 Here, the information sought is nothing more than confirmation of whether two “APPS 20 cases” are really APPS-based. If the “APPS cases” are APPS-based—as the label clearly 21 implies—then the information sought is nothing more than confirmation that the Department’s 22 labeling of “APPS cases” was correct. Assuming Defendants will stand behind the claim that 23 these two cases are reasonably identified as “APPS cases,” then there is zero “necessity for 24 preserving the confidentiality of the information[:.]” the Department already disclosed the relevant 25 facts by labeling the “APPS cases” with that name. Furthermore, the two cases at issue are closed, 26 so there is no law enforcement-related reason to keep any relevant information privileged. (See 27 County of Orange, supra, 79 Cal.App. at pp. 768-769.)

28 ///

1 If, however, Defendants circulated a report to the public and the governor wherein non-2 APPS cases were referred to as “APPS cases[,]” disclosure of that fact is plainly in the public 3 interest, for at least three reasons. First, if the Department is funding non-APPS-based law
4 enforcement activities under the auspices of APPS, that maneuver makes it impossible to tell 5 what is really being spent on APPS-based enforcement. This is a critical issue at this moment in 6 time—Defendant Harris is currently in the process of lobbying the legislature to make a 7 permanent, multi-million dollar funding decision based on the costs allegedly attributable to 8 APPS and APPS enforcement activities. (Franklin Decl. ¶ 13.)

9 It was only a few years ago that the Governor slashed approximately $59,000,000 from the 10 Division of Law Enforcement’s budget, which was about one-quarter of its budget for fiscal year
11 2012-2013. (Franklin Decl. ¶ 14.) The Bureau of Firearms, which performs the Department’s 12 APPS-based law enforcement activities, is part of the Division of Law Enforcement. (Id. ¶ 14.) If 13 the Department is inflating the costs attributed to APPS with costs related to non-APPS cases, 14 that is information the public and the legislature has a right, and a current need, to access. (Cal.
15 Const., art. I, § 3, subd. (b)(1) [“The people have the right of access to information concerning the 16 conduct of the people’s business”].) Similarly, if extreme non-APPS cases—e.g., the case the 17 Department described as “Parents Jailed after Agents Find Guns and Drugs in Home with Small 18 Children”—are being identified as “APPS cases,” that misleads the public as how APPS works 19 and what results are actually APPS-based. (Franklin Decl. ¶ 12.)

20 Second, regardless of whether the misrepresentation was intentional or not, the public 21 generally has a strong interest in holding the government accountable for careless or misleading 22 statements. (Sierra Club v. Superior Court (2013) 57 Cal.4th 157, 164 [“Implicit in the 23 democratic process is the notion that government should be accountable for its actions. In order to 24 verify accountability, individuals must have access to government files.”].)

25 Third, as is specifically relevant hereto, the misrepresentation of non-APPS cases as 26 “APPS cases” raises concerns about whether such funding is statutorily authorized and whether it 27 improperly impacts the amount of the DROS fee being charged, and therefore all DROS fee 28 payers. Again, intermingling APPS-based and non-APPS costs make it difficult, if not impossible,

1 to determine how much money is actually being taken from the DROS Special Account pursuant 2 to the 2011 change in Penal Code section 28225 that was intended to provide funding for one 3 specific thing: APPS-based law enforcement activities. (Stats. 2011, ch. 743, § 1, subd. (g) [“it is 4 the intent of the Legislature . . . to allow the DOJ to utilize the Dealer Record of Sale Account for 5 the additional, limited purpose of funding enforcement of (APPS)”].)

6 The facts plainly weigh in favor of disclosure, especially in light of the fact that Plaintiffs 7 seek little more than confirmation that two statements made by the Department in a statutorily 8 required report were accurate. Indeed, Defendants cannot refuse to respond to the SIs because it 9 might undercut Defendants’ arguments in this litigation; that kind of interest is irrelevant under 10 Evidence Code section 1040, subdivision (b). Plaintiffs cannot identify any way in which the 11 public could conceivably benefit from the relevant information being kept secret. The two 12 criminal cases at issue are closed, so there is no investigatory need to keep the information secret, 13 if it even can be considered secret after being implicitly disclosed in the 2013-2014 Biennial 14 Report. In light thereof, all of Defendants’ governmental privilege objections, just like all of their 15 boilerplate objections, should be disregarded.

16
17 C. Defendants Are Attempting to Evade Responding to an Interrogatory Concerning a Matter at the Heart of this Action

18 Interrogatory No. 25 ask Defendants the basis for their response to Interrogatory No. 24, 19 which ask Defendants to “[s]tate the total amount of expenditures attributed to tasks referred to in 20 Penal Code section 28225 for the fiscal year 2013-2014[.]” (Sep. Statement at p. 2.) Defendants 21 claim they “are unable to answer this interrogatory[.]” (Id. at pp. 2-3.) Accordingly, Defendants’ 22 response to Interrogatory No. 25 should be an explanation of why they purportedly cannot 23 respond. But instead, Defendants’ response to Interrogatory No. 25 refers to the calculation of 24 $29,144,382, which is a total of DROS money spent in fiscal year 2013-2014 on eight different 25 “programs” within the Department. (Id. at p. 3; Franklin Decl. ¶ 15.) What Plaintiffs asked, and 26 what Defendants responded to, concern two very different things, and Defendants’ response to 27 Interrogatory No. 25 blurs the line between the two. The distinction—and the relevance 28 thereof—might not be obvious on first glance, but Defendants’ evasive response goes to the 1 dispute at the center of this Action.

2 By providing a response to Interrogatory No. 25 based on program-wide expenditure
3 subtotals and not the specific expenditure classes described in Penal Code section 28225, 4 Defendants are avoiding taking a position on a key factual issue in this case. Plaintiffs' First 5 Amended Complaint specifically alleges that since at least 2004, the Department has failed to 6 perform its duty to review the amount of the DROS fee and ensure it is "no more than is necessary
7 to fund" the activities listed in Penal Code section 28225. (Compl. ¶¶ 89-100; Penal Code, § 8 28225.)

9 Plaintiffs asked Defendants to identify "the total amount of expenditures attributed to 10 tasks referred to in Penal Code section 28225 for the fiscal year 2013-2014" so Plaintiffs could 11 attempt to calculate if the DROS fee is actually "no more than is necessary to fund" the activities 12 listed in Penal Code section 28225. (Penal Code, § 28225, subd. (b).) Defendants' response to 13 Interrogatory No. 25 ignores the fact that costs other than section 28225 costs are being funded 14 out of the DROS Special Account, so the total "program" expenditures coming out of the DROS 15 Special Account in fiscal year 2013-14 do not equal the total costs of the tasks referred to in 16 28225 regarding the same fiscal year.

17 For example, section 28225 does not address costs for attorneys, but the Department spent 18 approximately $181,000 of DROS Special Account funds on attorneys in fiscal year 2013-14.
19 (Franklin Decl. ¶ 16.) Plaintiffs have not yet confirmed what work the DROS Special Account-20 funded attorneys were doing during fiscal year 2013-2014, but it appears that in the two fiscal 21 years preceding fiscal year 2013-2014, money was going out of the DROS Special Account to pay 22 for attorneys representing the Bureau of Firearms, or employees thereof, in lawsuits "related to 23 Penal Codes and CCW's [sic, permits to carry concealed carry weapon]." (Id. ¶ 17.)

24 Defendants' responses to Interrogatories No. 24 and 25 refute one another, meaning 25 Defendants' responses are clearly not "as complete and straightforward as the information 26 reasonably available to the responding party permits." (§ 2030.220, subd. (a).) Therefore, 27 Defendants should be ordered to provide a further response to Interrogatory No. 25 that actually 28 explains why Defendants cannot provide a response to Interrogatory No. 24.

IV. CONCLUSION

As explained above, the disputed responses concern key aspects of this action, and Defendants' responses are incomplete and appear impermissibly crafted to evade. Plaintiffs respectfully request the Court grant this Motion and provide the relief requested hereby.
