AMENDED COMPLAINT FOR INJUNCTIVE AND DECLARATORY RELIEF

I. NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. On July 14, 2009 an act of Tennessee Legislature, HB 0962/SB 1127, "An Act to amend Tennessee Code Annotated, Title 39, Chapter 17, relative to firearms" (Exhibit A hereto) is scheduled to become law (over a veto of Tennessee Governor Phil Bredesen). HB 0962/SB 1127, which became Public Law 339 on May 14, 2009 amends prior T.C.A. § 39-17-1305(c)<sup>1</sup> to make Tennessee the first state in the nation expressly to allow carrying a loaded concealed firearm into a bar<sup>2</sup>.

(a) It is an offense for a person to possess a firearm within the confines of a building open to the public where liquor, wine or other alcoholic beverages, as defined in § 57-3-101(a)(1)(A), or beer, as defined in § 57-6-102(1), are served for on premises consumption.

(b) A violation of this section is a Class A misdemeanor.

(c) The provisions of subsection (a) shall not apply to a person who is:

(1) In the actual discharge of official duties as a law enforcement officer, or is employed in the army, air force, navy, coast guard or marine service of the United States or any member of the Tennessee national guard in the line of duty and pursuant to military regulations, or is in the actual discharge of duties as a correctional officer employed by a penal institution; or

2. The challenged law, Public Chapter 339, as passed provides :

SECTION 1. Tennessee Code Annotated, Section 39-17-1305(c), is amended by adding the following language as a new, appropriately designated subdivision: [to section 1305 which makes it a Class A misdemeanor to carry a firearm where liquor, wine or other alcoholic beverages are served for on premises consumption, except for persons such as law enforcement and on one's own property and, now an exception for persons...]

(A) Authorized to carry a firearm under § 39-17-1351 who is not consuming beer, wine or any alcoholic beverage, and is within the confines of a restaurant that is open to the public and serves alcoholic beverages, wine or beer.

(B) As used in this subdivision (c)(3), "restaurant" means any public place kept, used, maintained, advertised and held out to the public as a place where meals are served and where meals are actually and regularly served, such place being provided with adequate and sanitary kitchen and dining room equipment, having employed therein a sufficient number and kind of employees to prepare, cook and serve suitable food for its guests. At least one (1) meal per day shall be served at least five (5) days a week, with the exception of holidays, vacations and periods of redecorating, and the serving of such meals shall be the principal business conducted.

3. Tennessee's liquor laws do not differentiate between bars and restaurants; all places that that are licensed to serve liquor by the drink are "restaurants." T.C.A. 57-

(2) On the person's own premises or premises under the person's control or who is the employee or agent of the owner of the premises with responsibility for protecting persons or property.

<sup>2</sup> A "bar" where firearms may not be carried by persons with firearms permits is variously defined under state liquor laws, as: an area or areas of a restaurant primarily devoted to drinking (the bar area of a restaurant); or a drinking establishment that derives 51 percent or more of its income from the sale or service of alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption; or a drinking establishment that restricts entry to persons age 21 and above; or an establishment whose primary purpose is drinking. See footnote 3 infra. This Complaint's use of the term "bar" encompasses all of these definitions. As will be shown herein, however, in Tennessee all "bars" as defined above are considered "restaurants" as Tennessee law does not use any of these definitions, does not define a "bar" for liquor licensing purposes or for firearm restrictions and licenses all drinking establishments serving liquor by the drink for on premises consumption as "restaurants." See infra ¶ 3 & 4.

4-102 (27)(A).<sup>3</sup> Proponents of the new law misleadingly labeled the law a "restaurant carry" law or "restaurant bill." In Tennessee, however, all nightclubs, clubs, bars, and bar areas of restaurants that presently serve alcohol (until the wee hours of the morning : 3:00 a.m.; 24/7 Memphis) are licensed as "restaurants."

4. Because the new Tennessee law expressly permits bringing firearms into all drinking establishments (i.e. bars, nightclubs, or portions of restaurant premises that serve alcohol) Tennessee stands alone in expressly permitting bringing guns into all places in the state that serve liquor by the drink (including bars). Bringing firearms into drinking establishments (i.e. bars, nightclubs, or portions of restaurant premises that serve alcohol) is expressly prohibited by state statute, common law nuisance action or local laws.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>3</sup> "Proponents of the curfew [removed from the final bill and law] said they wanted handgun carry rights to extend to family restaurants that also happen to serve alcohol. The 11 p.m. curfew was meant to differentiate those restaurants from bars, since Tennessee law doesn't make an official distinction between the two." CBS News website, "Guns In Bars? Tenn. House Says OK"
<http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2009/05/08/national/main5001150.shtml?tag=contentMain;contentBody>

<sup>4</sup> Nine states expressly prohibit loaded guns in restaurants and bars (Arizona, Louisiana, Maine, Montana, North Carolina, North Dakota, New Mexico, Ohio and South Carolina).

Virginia prohibits concealed carrying of weapons in bars and restaurants.

Alaska prohibits carrying loaded firearms where alcohol is served; the law creates an affirmative defense for carrying a firearm in a "restaurant" (defined and limited by law to serve only beer or wine [not liquor]) if alcohol is not consumed.

Fourteen states expressly permit a concealed weapons permit holder to carry a gun into a restaurant that serves alcohol (Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, Mississippi, Nebraska, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Washington, Wyoming). However in none of these states can a concealed loaded weapon be brought into a bar. Five of those 14 states expressly preclude carrying a loaded weapon into areas of the restaurant primarily devoted to drinking (i.e. the bar) (Arkansas, Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi and Wyoming). Six other states prohibit carrying guns in establishments that derive less than 50% of their total annual food and beverage sales from prepared meals (Georgia, Missouri, Nebraska, South Dakota Texas and Kansas (30%)). Washington prohibits guns in 21 and up establishments. Oklahoma and Michigan prohibit carrying guns if the primary purpose of the establishment is drinking.

5. No state, by statute or regulation, expressly allows firearms in bars. Because bars, saloons, nightclubs and restaurants with bar areas are notorious for fights, assaults and breaches of the peace, carrying loaded guns is expressly prohibited in bars, nightclubs or bar areas serving alcohol in 24 states (Alaska (AK ST s 11.61.220; AK § 04.11.100) , Arizona (AZ ST s 4-244), Arkansas (AR ST s 5-73-306); Florida (FL ST s 790.06) Georgia (GA ST s 16-11-127), Kansas (K.S.A. 75-7c10(12)), Kentucky (KY ST s 237.110), Louisiana (LA R.S. 40:1379.3), Maine (ME ST T. 17-A s 1057), Michigan (MI ST 28.425o), Mississippi (MS ST s 45-9-101), Missouri (MO ST 571.107), Montana (MT ST

Illinois and Wisconsin prohibit carrying concealed weapons in all places in the state.

22 other states (Alabama, California, Colorado Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, , Idaho, Iowa Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, New Hampshire, New York, Nevada, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia) have no express permission or express prohibition statutes related to carrying a gun where alcohol is served. However, these states take action under public nuisance laws when the state or city becomes aware that guns and/or shootings are occurring in bars.

Nuisance bars: Vermont, nuisance bars shut down; <http://bit.ly/LiqSk> ("The City of Burlington has a long history of dealing with issues revolving around bars and alcohol. And in the past, the city has shut down several places that were perceived to be a public nuisance." California nuisance bar shut down (shooting at bar; public nuisance): <http://bit.ly/GI21t>; Florida nuisance bar shut down (shootings at the bar): <http://bit.ly/wlOrp>; Kansas: nuisance bar shut down: <http://bit.ly/GI21t>; Maryland: nuisance bar shut down: <http://bit.ly/gt5wZ>; Minnesota: nuisance bar closed (gunshots at bar): <http://bit.ly/2qwUus>; Pennsylvania: nuisance bar shut down (shooting): <http://bit.ly/gt0L1> States also do not issue or restrict permits to not allow carrying in bars or places that serve alcohol. See e.g. Connecticut ("The permit to carry handguns allows people to carry them openly or concealed, but mature judgment, says the Board of Firearm Permit Examiners, dictates that (1) "every effort should be made to ensure that no gun is exposed to view or carried in any manner that would tend to alarm people who see it. . . [and] (2) no handgun should be carried unless carrying the gun at the time and place involved is prudent and proper in the circumstances."

For example, according to the board, handguns should not be carried: 1. into a bar or other place where alcohol is being consumed "www.cga.ct.gov/2007/rpt/2007-R-0369.htm; California (permit itself prohibits carrying in places where primary purpose is serving alcoholic beverages for on-site consumption)

The point must simply be stressed: no state by act of positive law permits guns in bars and when guns are found in bars or bar shootings occur public nuisance laws are applied or state permits preclude carrying where alcohol is served.

45-8-328), Nebraska (NE LEGIS 430 (2009)), New Mexico (NM ST s 30-7-3), North Carolina (NC ST s 14-269.3) , North Dakota (ND ST 62.1-02-04) , Ohio (OH ST s 2923.126), Oklahoma (OK ST T. 21 s 1272.1), South Carolina (SC Code 1976 § 16-23-465), South Dakota (SDCL § 23-7-8.1), Texas (V.T.C.A., Penal Code § 46.03), Washington (WA ST 9.41.300(1)(d)), Wyoming (W.S.1977 § 6-8-104). Two states do not permit carrying weapons permits (Illinois, 720 ILCS 5/24-1 and Wisconsin, W.S.A. 167.31(2)(b)). Virginia expressly prohibits carrying concealed weapons where alcohol is served.<sup>5</sup>

6. Absent an injunction guns can be brought into any bar or restaurant or nightclub that serves alcohol on July 14, 2009 and the law will decriminalize carrying a permitted gun into a posted bar or restaurant (where the owner has posted “no firearms”) making the act a fine of “no more than $500.” Websites for Tennessee Firearms Association members and blogs of the Tennessee Firearms Association are already discussing the topics of what is the penalty for bringing a gun into a bar or restaurant and whether the law prohibits having consumed alcohol prior to entering the bar or restaurant (it does not). See Tennessee Firearms Association website blog.

7. Legislators who supported this law have claimed that “36” or more states have “similar laws” allowing permit holders to go armed in establishments serving alcohol. Legislative proponents stated 36 states have similar laws and later that “40 states allow citizens that have handguns to carry their handguns where alcohol is served.” <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=s2pZclaNqi4>.

8. The National Rifle Association released statistics that “38 states” had laws similar to the new Tennessee law:

“According to Alexa Fritts, media relations associate for the National Rifle Association, the following states already allow similar forms of gun

<sup>5</sup> Virginia law expressly prohibits carrying concealed weapons where alcohol is served. Va. Code Ann. 18.2-308(13) (2005). See <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=aeR9LKDtQws>

carrying laws in restaurants which serve alcohol: Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Iowa, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Nevada, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming."

9. In fact: none of these 38 states identified by the NRA and the law's proponents expressly permit guns in bars. Fourteen of these 38 states expressly prohibit loaded guns in bars or bar areas (Alaska, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Washington and Wyoming). In the remaining 24 states cited by the NRA these states have no statutes that expressly permit (or prohibit) guns where alcohol is served. However these states in fact take action to close nuisance bars where guns are present or shootings occur. See supra fn. 4.

10. Tennessee will also be the first state in the nation to decriminalize bringing a permitted firearm into a drinking establishment that posts a notice (forbidding guns on the premises). Under prior law, T.C.A. § 39-17-1305 carrying a concealed weapon into a drinking establishment was a criminal offense, Class A misdemeanor ("(b) A violation of this section is a Class A misdemeanor"—meaning the person carrying a gun into a drinking establishment, licensed to carry or not, could be arrested, detained, taken to jail, dispossessed of the gun by police officers, and faced a criminal penalty—Class A misdemeanor – "of not greater than eleven (11) months, twenty-nine (29) days or a fine not to exceed two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500), or both." T. C. A. § 40-35-302; T. C. A. § 40-35-111.

11. The newly passed law removes the specific Class A misdemeanor criminal penalty for carrying a firearm into a drinking establishment by permit holders, and over 220,000 permitted gun owners (and permit holders in 19 reciprocity states) can carry a firearm even on the premises of a posted drinking establishment that serves alcohol and will face a mere fine (a ticket) of up to $500. T.C.A. § 39-17-1359. Carrying a gun into a drinking establishment is no longer a criminal offense or an incarcerative offense and there is no forfeiture of the firearm.<sup>6</sup> Compare e.g., Kansas law, K.S.A. 75-7c11, (criminal Class B misdemeanor to bring a gun onto posted property). Imposing small fines or penalties for illegally carrying a gun into at or near drinking establishment causes more firearms at bars and presents a risk to public safety. See "Mayor [of Lawrence, Kansas] seeks stricter gun law: Amyx wants jail time for carrying firearms near bars" [local ordinance prohibits Kansas permit holders to carry firearm within 200 feet of any bar in Lawrence, KS but imposed no mandatory jail time; mayor called for stiffer law].<sup>7</sup>

12. A permit owner, under the new law, although not permitted to consume alcohol on the premises, can enter the premises of a drinking establishment, having previously consumed alcohol (if not "intoxicated"). T.C.A. § 39-17-1321.<sup>8</sup>

13. Public Nuisance. Petitioners challenge the legality of T.C.A. § 39-17-1305(c)(3) as an unlawful public nuisance that unreasonably threatens the life, health and safety of the public.

<sup>6</sup> Although the general right of an individual or property owner to post a notice that firearms are not allowed on the premises under T.C.A. § 39-17-1359 is described as a "criminal act" the penalty is limited to a fine of not more than five hundred dollars. The mere labeling of an act as criminal or civil is not dispositive of whether the act in fact criminal or civil and the lack of an incarcerative penalty (and small fine) effectively removes criminal status from this offense as well as constitutional protections such as right to trial by jury. See State v. Anton, 463 A.2d 703, 706 (Me., 1983) ("...[T]his Court has stated that the label "civil" or "criminal" is not dispositive of the nature of a proceeding. State v. Gleason, 404 A.2d 573, 583 (Me. 1979).

14. Due Process/Taking. Petitioners aver that the law violates due process and amounts to a taking of property that exposes bars and restaurants that serve alcohol to guns with no effective deterrent to carrying guns on posted premises and increases civil liability for shootings. See "Patron injured in shooting sues bar" (PA bar patron sued bar for inadequately screening for firearms, <http://bit.ly/1arT1V>).

15. Due Process/Arbitrary and Capricious Exercise of Police Power. Petitioners challenge the law and on the grounds that the law is an unconstitutional deprivation of due process because it is an unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious exercise of the police power.

16. Tennessee Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1972. Petitioners challenge the guns in bar law as in violation the general duty clause of the Tennessee Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1972, T.C.A. § 50-3-105(1).<sup>9</sup>

17. Tennessee Constitution. Petitioners aver the guns in bar law violates due process and the rights guaranteed by Art. I, Secs. 1<sup>10</sup>, 8<sup>11</sup>, 17<sup>12</sup>, 23<sup>13</sup> of the Tennessee Constitution. Petitioners further challenge the law as in violation of Art. XI, Sec. 8 of the Tennessee Constitution: "The Legislature shall have no power to suspend any general law for the benefit of any particular individual, nor to pass any law for the benefit of individuals inconsistent with the general laws of the land." (emphasis supplied).

<sup>11</sup> "That no man shall be taken or imprisoned, or disseized of his freehold, liberties or privileges, or outlawed, or exiled, or in any manner destroyed or deprived of his life, liberty or property, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land."

<sup>12</sup> "Suits may be brought against the state in such manner and in such courts as the Legislature may by law direct."

18. 42 U.S.C. § 1983 State-Created Danger and State-Created Vigilantism. Petitioners challenge the law as an unconstitutional deprivation of civil and constitutional rights under the "state-created danger" doctrine recognized under cases and law construing 42 U.S.C. 1983.<sup>14</sup>

19. Due Process and the Fundamental Right to be Free from Gun Violence in "Sensitive Places". Petitioners challenge the law on the ground that the law is an unconstitutional deprivation of due process because it violates a fundamental right to be free from gun violence in sensitive public places.

20. The Second Amendment right to keep and bear arms is not implicated in this case. Just as there is no First Amendment right falsely to cry "fire" in a crowded theater<sup>15</sup>: "There is nothing in the language of our state constitution or in the history of the right to 'bear arms', as protected by the federal and various state constitutions, which lends any credence whatsoever to the claim that there is a constitutional right to carry a firearm into a drinking establishment." Second Amendment Foundation v. City of Renton, 35 Wash.App. 583, 588, 668 P.2d 596, 599 (Wash. Ct. App. 1983). The U.S. Supreme Court has recently recognized in District of Columbia v. Heller, 128 S.Ct. 2783, <sup>14</sup> Henderson v. City of Chattanooga, 133 S.W.3d 192, 211 (Tenn.Ct.App.,2003): "The next issue addressed in Kallstrom I [Kallstrom v. City of Columbus, 136 F.3d 1055 C.A.6 (Ohio),1998] was whether a state could be held liable for private acts of violence under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Relying on the state-created-danger theory, the Sixth Circuit concluded that a state can be held liable for the actions of a private individual, such as a gang member, when the state's action places the individual victim "specifically at risk, as distinguished from a risk that affects the public at large." Id. at 1066. Owners and employees (wait staff, bartenders, servers, etc) are placed at direct and grave risk of guns in drinking establishments).

<sup>15</sup> "The most stringent protection of free speech would not protect a man in falsely shouting fire in a theatre and causing a panic. It does not even protect a man from an injunction against uttering words that may have all the effect of force." Schenck v. U.S. 249 U.S. 47, 39 S.Ct. 247, 249 (U.S. 1919).

2817 (2008) that the right of an individual to bear arms is not unlimited and that firearms may not be carried "in sensitive places"<sup>16</sup>

21. Tennessee law has long recognized that guns in the presence of alcohol is a dangerous and volatile combination. "It has been stated in several opinions of this Court that alcohol and firearms are a volatile combination as someone will likely be hurt." State v. Parker, 932 S.W.2d 945, 957 (Tenn.Cr.App.,1996); see also United States v. Prescott, 599 F.2d 103 (5th Cir. 1979) (discussing the "volatile mixture" of alcohol and firearms."

22. Petitioners seek a temporary and permanent injunction to enjoin the guns in bars law from taking effect. Simply put, guns and alcohol don't mix. The combination of guns and alcohol on the premises of drinking establishments is a state-created danger and threat to public safety that violates common law, statutory and constitutional rights of the public and persons who own and work at drinking establishments. Courts have the power and duty to strike down state-created nuisances and laws that unreasonably or unconstitutionally threaten the health, safety and welfare of the public.

II. FACTUAL AND LEGAL BASIS FOR CLAIMS

23. Although a state legislature may pass laws in pursuit of its regulation and police powers, judicial review is necessary and appropriate "[i]f the means employed have no real, substantial relation to public objects which government may legally accomplish, [or] if they are arbitrary and unreasonable . . . the judiciary will . . .

<sup>16</sup> "Although we do not undertake an exhaustive historical analysis today of the full scope of the Second Amendment, nothing in our opinion should be taken to cast doubt on longstanding prohibitions on the possession of firearms by felons and the mentally ill, or laws forbidding the carrying of firearms in sensitive places such as schools and government buildings, or laws imposing conditions and qualifications on the commercial sale of arms." District of Columbia v. Heller, 128 S.Ct. 2783, 2817 (2008) interfere for the protection of rights injuriously affected by such illegal action. The authority of the courts to interfere in such cases is beyond all doubt." Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co. v. People of State of Illinois, 200 U.S. 561, 593 26 S.Ct. 341 U.S. (1906).

24. A legislative enactment will be deemed invalid if it bears no real or substantial relationship to the public's health, safety, morals or general welfare or if it is unreasonable or arbitrary. See Nashville, C & L. Ry. v. Walters, 294 U.S. 405, 55 S.Ct. 486, 79 L.Ed. 949 (1935); Estrin v. Moss, 221 Tenn. 657, 430 S.W.2d 345, 348 (Tenn.1968), cert. dismissed, 393 U.S. 318, 89 S.Ct. 554 (1969); First Tennessee Bank Nat. Ass'n v. Jones, 732 S.W.2d 281 (Tenn.App.,1987) (statute is an invalid exercise of the police power burden if "the statute is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, and has no real tendency to effectuate the legislative purpose." Templeton v. Metropolitan Government of Nashville and Davidson Co., 650 S.W.2d 743 (Tenn.App.1983).

25. The Attorney General of the State of Tennessee is the proper defendant in this action. T.C.A. § 8-6-109. Peters v. O'Brien, 152 Tenn. 466, 278 S.W. 660 (1925) (Attorney General is proper party in a declaratory judgment action to determine validity of a state statute). Petitioners aver that pursuant to T.C.A. § 8-6-109 the Attorney General should exercise his discretion and not defend the validity and constitutionality and give notice to the speakers of each house of the general assembly of his decision.

26. Public Nuisance. Petitioners bring this challenge to Tennessee's "guns in bar law" on the grounds that the law creates and abets an unlawful public nuisance: loaded weapons (concealed or carried openly) on premises where alcoholic beverages, wine or beer is served.

27. The "guns in bar law" is a public nuisance under RESTATEMENT OF TORTS (SECOND) § 834 in that it is an unreasonable interference with a right common to the general public and creates a significant threat to the public health, public safety, and public peace.

28. The "guns in bar law" permits concealed (and openly carried) loaded firearms to be carried by gun permit holders into bars, nightclubs and restaurants serving alcohol. Petitioners aver the law itself creates a public nuisance (public nuisances) and threatens the health, safety, welfare and the very lives of the Petitioners.<sup>17</sup>

29. "In Tennessee, a public nuisance is defined as "an act or omission that unreasonably interferes with or obstructs rights common to the public." Wayne County v. Tennessee Solid Waste Disposal Control Bd., 756 S.W.2d 274, 283 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1988) (citing Restatement (Second) of Torts § 821B (1977)), cited in North Carolina ex rel. Cooper v. Tennessee Valley Authority, 549 F.Supp.2d 725, 735 (W.D.N.C., 2008).

30. A public nuisance may be enjoined "even though it has not yet resulted in any significant harm" if "harm is threatened" where "harm is threatened that would be significant." Restatement Second of Torts § 821F (comment b).

31. Shootings that occur in a bar or nightclub are evidence of a public nuisance which Tennessee courts may abate. State ex rel. Gibbons v. Club Universe, 2005 WL 175035 (Tenn.Ct.App., 2005) (Memphis nightclub declared a public nuisance and Court enjoined the nightclub from further operation based upon, inter alia, evidence of "shootings" "in the nightclub"). Id. at * 1. See also People ex rel. Gallo v. Acuna, 14 Cal.4th 1090, 929 P.2d 596 (Cal., 1997) ("shootings" supported finding of public nuisance.").

<sup>17</sup> The Tennessee statute defines nuisance as: any place in or upon which lewdness, assignation, promotion of prostitution, patronizing prostitution, unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors, unlawful sale of any regulated legend drug, narcotic or other controlled substance, unlawful gambling, and sale, exhibition or possession of any material determined to be obscene or pornographic with intent to exhibit, sell, deliver, or distribute matter or materials, ... quarreling, drunkenness, fighting or breaches of the peace are carried on or permitted, and personal property, contents, furniture, fixtures, equipment and stock used in or in connection with the conducting and maintaining any such place for any such purpose. Minnesota: “Consider Zachary Ourada, who was proud of his newly obtained permit to carry a concealed handgun. A local bartender commented that the twenty-seven year old ‘felt like somebody because he had a permit.’ Ourada had met the requirements of Minnesota’s Personal Protection Act, which, among other things, requires a background check, and completion of a gun safety course. On the night of May 13, 2005, however, Ourada had a little too much to drink. He does not clearly remember what happened that night, but does remember being asked to leave a popular supper-club and being escorted out by Billy Walsh, the doorman. A few moments later, Walsh was dead with four gunshot wounds in his back. “I’m sorry,” Ourada told the court.” Comment A Survey of State Conceal and Carry Statutes: Can Small Changes Help Reduce Controversy?, 29 HAMLINE L. 35. "The definition of 'nuisance' is marked by flexibility and reasonable breadth, rather than meticulous specificity." State ex rel. Woodall v. D&L Co., Inc., 2001 WL 524279 (Tenn. Ct. App., 2001) citing, Grayned City of Rockford, 408 U.S. 104, 110 (1972). Liability for public nuisance "is based on interference with the public's use and enjoyment of a public place or with other common rights of the public." Metro. Gov't of Nashville & Davidson County v. Counts, 541 S.W.2d 133, 138 (Tenn. 1976) (An individual may maintain an action based on public nuisance if that individual has sustained some special injury as a result of the nuisance; and a public nuisance is the interference with the public's use and enjoyment of a public place); 66 C.J.S. Nuisances § 65 (1998); Hale v. Ostrow, 2004 WL 1563230 (Tenn.Ct.App.,2004), rev'd on other grounds, Hale v. Ostrow, 166 S.W.3d 713 (Tenn. 2005). A state or governmental entity that creates a public nuisance is not entitled to immunity and may be sued for creating a public nuisance. Johnson v. Tennessean Newspaper, Inc. 28 Beeler 287, 241 S.W.2d 399 (Tenn. 1951); Jones v. Knox County, 9 McCanless 561, 327 S.W.2d 473 (Tenn. 1959).

36. Where a governmental entity maintains or aids and abets a public nuisance, although it does so while in the discharge of a public duty, or in the performance of a governmental function, it cannot claim immunity. Bobo v. City of Kenton, 22 Beeler 515, 212 S.W.2d 363 (Tenn. 1948); Knoxville v. Lively, 1918, 141 Tenn. 22, 206 S.W. 180 (1918).

37. T.C.A. § 6-2-201(23) empowers municipalities in Tennessee to "prescribe limits within which business occupations and practices liable to be nuisances or detrimental to the health, morals, security or general welfare of the people may lawfully be established, conducted or maintained."

38. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee for local governments to control and abate public nuisances. See e.g. T.C.A. § 6-54-127(g) (graffiti as nuisance) "Nothing in this section shall be construed to impair or limit the power of the municipality to define and declare nuisances and to cause their removal or abatement under any procedure now provided by law for the abatement of any public nuisances." To the same effect: T.C.A. § 13-21-103(6)

39. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that governmental power may not be used to create, maintain or abet public nuisances. See e.g., T.C.A. § 7-54-103(j),(k):

"(j) Any municipality or county exercising, whether jointly or severally, any authority conferred upon it by this chapter, as amended, is hereby declared to be acting in furtherance of a public or governmental purpose. (k) Provided, that such separation and disposition neither creates a public nuisance nor is otherwise injurious to the public health, welfare, and safety."

40. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that the Courts have the power and jurisdiction to "abate nuisances." See T.C.A. § 16-10-110.

41. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that aiding and abetting a public nuisance is unlawful. See T.C.A. § 29-3-101(b): "Any person who uses, occupies, establishes or conducts a nuisance, or aids or abets therein, and the owner, agent or lessee of any interest in any such nuisance, together with the persons employed in or in control of any such nuisance by any such owner, agent or lessee, is guilty of maintaining a nuisance and such nuisance shall be abated as provided hereinafter."

42. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that the state may be sued for creating or maintaining nuisances." See e.g., T.C.A. § 9-8-307(a)(1)(b) (State may be sued for monetary damages for "(B) Nuisances created or maintained.").

43. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that buildings that are dangerous to human life are declared "public nuisances." See T.C.A. § 13-6-102(8):

"'Public nuisance' means any vacant building that is a menace to the public health, welfare, or safety; structurally unsafe, unsanitary, or not provided with adequate safe egress; that constitutes a fire hazard, dangerous to human life, or no longer fit and habitable; a nuisance as defined in § 29-3-101(a); or is otherwise determined by the local municipal corporation or code enforcement entity to be as such."

44. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that citizens affected by nuisances may bring a civil action to abate a nuisance in their community.

See T.C.A. § 13-6-106(a):

"...[A]ny interested party or neighbor, may bring a civil action" to abate a public nuisance"; T.C.A. § 29-3-102: "The jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon the chancery, circuit, and criminal courts and any court designated as an environmental court pursuant to Chapter 426 of the Public Acts of 1991 to abate the public nuisances defined in § 29-3-101, upon petition in the name of the state, upon relation of the attorney general and reporter, or any district attorney general, or any city or county attorney, or without the concurrence of any such officers, upon the relation of ten (10) or more citizens and freeholders of the county wherein such nuisances may exist, in the manner herein provided."

45. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that citizens may sue "all aiders and abettors" of a public nuisance. T.C.A. § 29-3-103.

46. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that a temporary injunction to abate a public nuisance should issue upon presentation of a proper bill or petition for public nuisance. T.C.A. § 29-3-105. Temporary injunction (a) In such proceeding, the court, or a judge or chancellor in vacation, shall, upon the presentation of a bill or petition therefore, alleging that the nuisance complained of exists, award a temporary writ of injunction, enjoining and restraining the further continuance of such nuisance, and the closing of the building or place wherein the same is conducted until the further order of the court, judge, or chancellor. (b) The award of a temporary writ of injunction shall be accompanied by such bond as is required by law in such cases, in case the bill is filed by citizens and freeholders; but no bond shall be required when such is filed by the officers provided for, if it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court, judge or chancellor, by evidence in the form of a due and proper verification of the bill or petition under oath, or of affidavits, depositions, oral testimony, or otherwise, as the complaints or petitioners may elect, that the allegations of such bill or petition are true."

47. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that fighting, drunkenness, breaches of the peace and property used in breaches of the peace constitute public nuisances. See T.C.A. § 29-3-101(a)(2):

"'Nuisance' means that which is declared to be such by other statutes, and, in addition thereto, means any place in or upon which lewdness, prostitution, promotion of prostitution, patronizing prostitution, unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors, unlawful sale of any regulated legend drug, narcotic or other controlled substance, unlawful gambling, any sale, exhibition or possession of any material determined to be obscene or pornographic with intent to exhibit, sell, deliver or distribute matter or materials in violation of §§ 39-17-901 – 39-17-908, § 39-17-911, § 39-17-914, § 39-17-918, or §§ 39-17-1003 – 39-17-1005, quarreling, drunkenness, fighting or breaches of the peace are carried on or permitted, and personal property, contents, furniture, fixtures, equipment and stock used in or in connection with the conducting and maintaining any such place for any such purpose."

48. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that courts may abate nuisances and order that "all means, appliances, fixtures, appurtenances, materials, supplies, and instrumentalities used for the purpose of conducting, maintaining, or carrying on the unlawful business, occupation, game, practice or device constituting such nuisance" be removed. T.C.A. § 29-3-110.

49. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that the trial of public nuisance cases be "given precedence over all other causes." T.C.A. § 29-3-108.

50. It is the law and public policy of the State of Tennessee that "Any person who is visibly intoxicated and who is disorderly" creates a public nuisance. T.C.A. § 68-14-602; T.C.A. § 68-14-605.

51. "A nuisance has been defined as anything which annoys or disturbs the free use of one's property, or which renders its ordinary use or physical occupation uncomfortable." Pate v. City of Martin, 614 S.W.2d 46 at 47 (Tenn. 1981). "The key element of any nuisance is the reasonableness" of the "conduct under the circumstances." Sadler v. State, 56 S.W.3d 508 (Tenn.Ct.App.,2001), citing, 58 AM.JUR.2D NUISANCES § 76.

52. When the Petitioners' theory of liability is public nuisance, the pleading requirements are not exacting because the concept of common law public nuisance elude[s] precise definition. The existence of a nuisance depends on the peculiar facts presented by each case. Young v. Bryco Arms, 213 Ill.2d 433, 821 N.E.2d 1078 (Ill.,2004).

53. Petitioners allege a cause of action for public nuisance: a right common to the general public for life and safety at public places including places that serve alcohol, the transgression of that right by the "guns in bars law" and resulting injury.

54. Petitioners aver the "guns in bar law" creates and abets a public nuisance because, under public nuisance law, even assuming arguendo the mere presence of permitted guns in bars is not per se harmful, the guns may become harmful by the intervention and acts of other persons and patrons and thus a public nuisance exists. See RESTATEMENT OF TORTS (SECOND) § 834<sup>22</sup>, and comment f<sup>3</sup>. The mere presence of guns on the premises can establish proof and evidence of a public nuisance because by actions of

In some cases the physical condition created is not of itself harmful, but becomes so upon the intervention of some other force, the act of another person or force of nature. In these cases the liability of the person whose activity created the physical condition depends upon the determination that his activity was a substantial factor in causing the harm, and that the intervening force was not a superseding cause. patrons, shootings and fights with guns may occur, which would make the premises a nuisance.

55. Because bars, saloons and nightclubs are notorious for fights, assaults and breaches of the peace, carrying loaded guns is expressly prohibited in bars and nightclubs serving alcohol in 24 states. See supra ¶ 2. No state by statute or case law expressly permits a gun permit holder to take a concealed loaded gun into a bar or nightclub that serves alcohol for consumption.

56. In states where there is no express prohibition against bringing guns into bars or nightclubs, courts in such states (and historically Tennessee) treat guns and alcohol as a “volatile combination” and routinely declare bars or nightclubs where guns are found to be present as public nuisances, particularly when shootings occur. See supra footnote 4. See e.g. Spitzer v. Sturm Ruger & Co., Inc., 309 A.D.2d 91, 98; 761 N.Y.S.2d 192 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2003) (unlike true public nuisance cases where “firearms” together with “the character of the premises as a nightclub serving alcoholic beverages” supports public nuisance; mere manufacture of guns did not cause/constitute public nuisance); Suleiman v. City of Memphis Alcohol Com’n, 2008 WL 2894679 (Tenn.Ct.App.,2008) (beer permit denied on public nuisance grounds because shootings had occurred at the market); *Kingsport v. App. 457, 430 S.E. 2d 722 (1993) (evidence of patrons possessing guns in a bar on two different occasions was relevant to public nuisance; which the court found existed and was affirmed on appeal); City of Rochester v. Premises Located at 10-12 South Washington Street, 180 Misc.2d 17, 687 N.Y.S.2d 523 (N.Y.Sup.,1998) (frequent shooting of firearms and fighting in vicinity of night club, was public nuisance).

57. Prior Tennessee law, T.C.A. § 39-17-1305 expressly recognized that citizen health and safety was threatened by guns on premises where alcohol was served or sold.

58. The passage of the new law did not change the facts that guns and alcohol don't mix, that guns and alcohol are a volatile combination, and that carrying loaded and concealed weapons into bars, nightclubs and restaurants that serve alcohol presents an unreasonable threat to public safety and an increased risk of shootings. "Studies by Kwon et al. (1997), Jarrell and Howsen (1990) and Kellermann et al. (1993) all show that higher alcohol consumption or availability is associated with higher rates of gun-related fatalities." National Bureau of Economic Research, Working Paper 7500 at p. 2 (Jan. 2000)<sup>27</sup>.

II. PARTIES

59. Petitioner Randy Rayburn (John Randy Rayburn) is an individual of the full age of majority and is domiciled in Tennessee.

<sup>26</sup> "In 2006, a nightclub in Nashville Tennessee had more than three hundred calls for police service in a one year period. Most of those calls were for gunshots, fights and assaults. The owners, who tried beefing up security, could not control the type of people who flocked to their establishment and eventually the city used a civil nuisance law to padlock their door and force them to close down." <http://bit.ly/19JWXk>; State of Tennessee v. Joseph Patrick Patton, Tropicana Club (Davidson County Chancery Ct.).

60. Petitioners John (Jane) Does 1-9 are individuals of the full age of majority and who are domiciled in Tennessee. Each Doe plaintiff works in a bar or restaurant in Tennessee and faces the threat, risk and danger of guns being brought into drinking establishments. Does 1-9 ask that they be allowed to pursue this action anonymously, as they fear community reprisals and attacks, and ostracism from their stance to challenge the guns in bars law.

61. Petitioners John Does 10, 11, 12 and 13 are Tennessee residents who may lawfully carry concealed firearms by a Tennessee handgun carry permit pursuant T.C.A. § 39-17-1351. Petitioners John Does 10, 11, 12 and 13 fear actual or threatened prosecution (as a Class A misdemeanor) under T.C.A. § 39-17-1305 because the law makes it a crime to carry a firearm into an establishment that serves alcohol but is not a restaurant defined as "the serving of such meals shall be the principal business conducted."

62. Defendant Robert Cooper, Jr. is sued in his official capacity as Tennessee Attorney General, P.O. Box 20207, Nashville, TN 37202.; Tennessee, Tennessee State Capitol, Nashville, Tennessee 37243;

III. STANDING

63. Petitioner Rayburn has suffered a special injury vesting him with standing to bring this nuisance action because the use and enjoyment of his restaurants, bars and nightclubs has been impaired by the new law which will bring patrons carrying guns to his premises. His injury and damages are markedly different from members of the public generally.

64. Petitioners Does 1-9 have or will suffer a special injury vesting them with standing to bring this nuisance action because they work in bars and/or restaurants that serve alcohol and will face the dangers and risks from patrons carrying guns to their workplaces (whether posted or not). Their injury and damages are markedly different from members of the public generally.

65. Petitioners John Does 10-13 are Tennessee residents who may lawfully carry concealed firearms by a Tennessee handgun carry permit pursuant T.C.A. § 39-17-1351. Petitioners John Does 10-13 fear actual or threatened prosecution (as a Class A misdemeanor) under T.C.A. § 39-17-1305.

66. Petitioners' injuries will be rectified by a favorable decision declaring and/or enjoining the enforcement as unconstitutional the guns in bars law.

67. Petitioners have a distinct and palpable injury (and are particularly aggrieved) by the guns-in-bars law.

V. FIRST COUNT: PUBLIC NUISANCE

68. Petitioners re-allege and re-aver all of the allegations contained in the previous paragraphs.

69. Permitting guns in bars threatens the security, life, safety and health of the public and Petitioners in a special manner and the law interferes with community interests and a collective ideal of civil life in a civil society. People ex rel Gallo v. Acuna, 14 Cal. 4th 1090, 1105, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277, 929 P.2d 596 (1997).

70. Newly enacted T.C.A. § 39-17-1305(c) is an unlawful state-created public nuisance. The State of Tennessee is creating, aiding, and abetting an unlawful public nuisance. Just as, for example, the State of Tennessee may not create a public nuisance by pouring concrete into the Cumberland River<sup>28</sup>, the State may not create, aid or abet placing guns in bars or restaurants with bar areas.

VI. SECOND COUNT: DUE PROCESS—TAKING OF PROPERTY

<sup>28</sup> See e.g., North Carolina ex rel. Cooper v. Tennessee Valley Authority, 549 F.Supp.2d 725, 735 (W.D.N.C., 2008) (TVA, a governmental entity, could not pollute North Carolina's air).

71. Petitioners re-allege and re-aver all of the allegations contained in the previous paragraphs.

72. Petitioner Rayburn's right of private property is a sacred, natural and inherent right, which is protected by the United States and Tennessee Constitutions.

The guns in bar law will impose added unreasonable burdens on Rayburn and other employers, property owners, tenants, or business entities who will be required to monitor the lawful and unlawful uses of firearms brought to the premises, especially since the new law decriminalizes bringing guns into bars and restaurants serving alcohol. The responsibility for monitoring who can legally enter and who cannot, who is armed and who is not, who can be served alcohol and who cannot, who needs police protection and who does not, rests entirely on the shoulders of the restaurant/bar owner.

73. The law will provide no effective deterrent or protection to carrying licensed guns into bars and will promote confrontations with patrons who seek to bring weapons into the bar and restaurant areas serving alcohol. Patrons will have to be monitored for guns and drinking and/or screened and identified for gun possession.<sup>29</sup> Signs will have to be posted which will deter patrons, tourism and the ambience of Petitioner's businesses. "Bar and restaurant owners are preparing for gun owners who want to pack heat everywhere they go."<sup>30</sup> The law will increase liability insurance rates and the legal risk and exposure for gun shootings as the law increases the probability of the presence of guns at premises that serve alcohol and expressly contemplates gun shootings by Tennessee's 220,000 gun permit holders and permit holders in 19 reciprocity states. Bar owners who post notices will have no reasonable assurance thousands of permit holders will not bring guns to their premises as the law has decriminalized carrying guns into restaurants and bars that serve alcoholic beverages. Nor will bar owners who are operating at near or below 50% meal sales know whether their patrons are legally or illegally carrying firearms as the law only permits carrying firearms into restaurants whose principal business is the service of meals.

<sup>29</sup> <http://www.myeyewitnessnews.com/news/local/story/Guns-Not-Allowed-On-Beale-Street/PtxXy9GMJESnOuKirw4J3w.csp> ("Signs prohibiting guns will be posted inside every bar and restaurant on Beale Street. In addition to signs, metal detector wands will be used at every entrance. The move comes after state lawmakers passed the "Guns In Bars" bill, allowing gun permit holders to bring their weapons inside places that serve alcohol. It's a move Performa says will ensure the safety of patrons like Ray Rials.").

VII. THIRD COUNT: SUBSTANTIVE DUE PROCESS VIOLATION

74. Petitioners re-allege and re-aver all of the allegations contained in the previous paragraphs.

75. Petitioners seek an injunction against the enforcement of the guns in bar law because it "is fundamentally arbitrary or irrational." Lingle v. Chevron U.S.A. Inc. 544 U.S. 528, 544 125 S.Ct. 2074 (U.S., 2005.). A government regulation "that fails to serve any legitimate governmental objective may be so arbitrary or irrational that it runs afoul of the Due Process Clause." Id. at 542. The guns in bar law has no reasonable or rational basis (fails rationality review) and fails strict, mid-level or heightened scrutiny required by the fundamental right to a workplace safe from recognized hazards to health and safety and the fundamental right to be free from gun violence and vigilante shootings in sensitive public places.

VIII. FOURTH COUNT: TOSHA & OSHA PREEMPTION

76. Petitioners hereby incorporate by reference the preceding paragraphs above.

77. The guns in bars law is preempted by OSHA's rules and regulations, and is therefore unenforceable under the Supremacy Clause contained in the United States Constitution. Article VI of the United States Constitution.

78. Congress imposed upon employers a general duty to "furnish to each of his employees employment and a place of employment which are free from recognized hazards that are causing or are likely to cause death or serious physical harm." 29 U.S.C. § 654(a)(1).

79. OSHA developed an enforcement policy with regard to workplace violence as early as 1992 in a letter of interpretation that stated: "In a workplace where the risk of violence and serious personal injury are significant enough to be "recognized hazards," the general duty clause [specified by Section 5(a)(1) of the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSH Act)] would require the employer to take feasible steps to minimize those risks [from guns]. Failure of an employer to implement feasible means of abatement of these hazards could result in the finding of an OSH Act violation." See Standards Interpretations Letter, September 13, 2006, available at 2006 WL 4093048.

80. OSHA has stated that employers may be cited for a general duty clause violation "[i]n a workplace where the risk of violence and serious personal injury are significant enough to be 'recognized hazards.'" Standard Interpretations Letter, December 10, 1992, available at:
<http://www.osha.gov/SLTC/workplaceviolence/standards.html>

81. Guns in bars and restaurants that serve alcohol are a "recognized hazard" to health, life and safety. The law is preempted and/or rendered unconstitutional by its conflict with the general duty safe place to work law mandated by state and federal law.

82. Petitioners aver that guns in work places that serve alcohol is a distinct, recognized hazard to wait staff, bartenders, employees, security staff and owners that is distinguishable from the general hazards of guns in, for example a parking lot at a factory workplace. Contrast: Ramsey Winch Inc. v. Henry, 555 F.3d 1199 C.A.10 (Okla., 2009).

IX. FIFTH COUNT: TENNESSEE CONSTITUTION

83. Petitioners hereby incorporate by reference the preceding paragraphs above.

84. Petitioners aver the guns in bar law violates due process and the rights guaranteed by Art. I, Secs. 1<sup>31</sup>, 8<sup>32</sup>, 17<sup>33</sup>, 23<sup>34</sup> of the Tennessee Constitution. Petitioners further challenge the law as in violation of Art. XI, Sec. 8 of the Tennessee Constitution: "The Legislature shall have no power to suspend any general law for the benefit of any particular individual, nor to pass any law for the benefit of individuals inconsistent with the general laws of the land."

IX. SIXTH COUNT: 42 U.S.C. § 1983: STATE-CREATED DANGER

85. Petitioners hereby incorporate by reference the preceding paragraphs above.

<sup>31</sup> "That all power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority, and instituted for their peace, safety, and happiness;"

<sup>32</sup> "That no man shall be taken or imprisoned, or disseized of his freehold, liberties or privileges" or outlawed, or exiled, or in any manner destroyed or deprived of his life, liberty or property, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land."

<sup>33</sup> "Suits may be brought against the state in such manner and in such courts as the Legislature may by law direct."

86. Petitioners challenge the law as an unconstitutional deprivation of civil and constitutional rights under the “state-created danger” doctrine recognized under cases and law construing 42 U.S.C. § 1983.<sup>35</sup>

87. Petitioners have and will suffer injury, fear, emotional distress and a lack of job mobility or employment prospects by laws that place guns in Tennessee bars and restaurants that serve alcohol.

X. SEVENTH COUNT: 42 U.S.C. § 1983: STATE-CREATED VIGILANTISM

88. Black's Law Dictionary defines vigilantism as: “The act of a citizen who takes the law into his or her own hands by apprehending and punishing suspected criminals.”<sup>36</sup>

89. The Tennessee guns in bar law encourages breaches of the peace and unlawful vigilantism. The statute was actually intended by lawmakers to justify vigilante use of deadly force. This subjects Petitioners, employees, patrons and members of the public to the clear and present danger of vigilante shootings in contravention to law and the rights guaranteed by the U.S. and Tennessee Constitutions. “[When private citizens are encouraged to act as “police agents,” official lawlessness thrives and the liberties of all are put in jeopardy. Surely we should not now repeat the mistakes of a discredited era of our frontier past.” People v. Superior Court (Meyers) 25 Cal.3d 67, 88, 598 P.2d 877 (Cal., 1979)

<sup>35</sup> Henderson v. City of Chattanooga, 133 S.W.3d 192, 211 (Tenn.Ct.App.,2003): “The next issue addressed in Kallstrom I [Kallstrom v. City of Columbus, 136 F.3d 1055 C.A.6 (Ohio),1998] was whether a state could be held liable for private acts of violence under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Relying on the state-created-danger theory, the Sixth Circuit concluded that a state can be held liable for the actions of a private individual, such as a gang member, when the state's action places the individual victim “specifically at risk, as distinguished from a risk that affects the public at large.” Id. at 1066. Owners and employees (wait staff, bartenders, servers, etc) are placed at direct and grave risk of guns in drinking establishments).

X. EIGHTH COUNT: FUNDAMENTAL DUE PROCESS RIGHT TO BE FREE FROM STATE-CREATED GUN VIOLENCE IN PUBLIC PLACES AT HIGH RISK FOR VIOLENCE FROM GUNS—GUNS WHERE ALCOHOL IS SERVED

90. Courts possess the inherent power to recognize new fundamental rights of liberty, life, safety or property so as to subject legislative acts to strict scrutiny judicial review. See e.g. Lawrence v. Texas, 539 U.S. 558, 123 S.Ct. 2472 (U.S.,2003) (recognizing new fundamental right of sexual privacy). Now that the U. S. Supreme Court has given recognition to an individual right to bear arms District of Columbia v. Heller, 128 S.Ct. 2783, 2817 (2008) the legal question arises as to the rights of other citizens to be free from guns at least in “sensitive places” especially where the presence of guns creates a high risk to public safety. Guns in bars is such a “sensitive places” situation warranting strict scrutiny.

91. “The mixture of firearms and alcohol is volatile. The danger does not necessarily arise from any evil intent on the part of the person possessing the firearm. The state's interest in keeping firearms out of establishments dispensing liquor is independent of any designs by the possessor of the weapon. Cf. State v. Soto, 95 N.M. 81, 82, 619 P.2d 185, 186 (1980) (purpose of § 30-7-3 is to protect innocent patrons); United States v. Margraf, 483 F.2d 708, 710 (3d Cir.1973) (“[M]ere presence of a weapon on board a plane creates a hazard because it may be seized and used by a potential hijacker.”), vacated, 414 U.S. 1106, 94 S.Ct. 833, 38 L.Ed.2d 734 (1973).” State v. Powell, 115 N.M. 188, 848 P.2d 1115, (N.M.App.,1993)

92. The Constitution of South Africa, for example, recently recognized in Article 12 that “everyone has the right to be free from all forms of violence, from either private, or public sources.”<sup>37</sup>

<sup>37</sup> Adrienne Katherine Wing, The South African Transition to Democratic Rule: Lessons for International and Comparative Law, 94 AM. SOC'Y INT'L L. PROC. 254,259 (2000)(“ Could such a clause be added

XI. NINTH COUNT: UNCONSTITUTIONAL VAGUENESS

93. The new law is unconstitutionally vague because the statute's definition of a restaurant, "the serving of such meals shall be the principal business conducted" provides no notice or opportunity to know what establishments are, or are not, covered by the statute.

94. The Tennessee Attorney General has already opined that such a principal or principal purpose limitation is unconstitutionally vague as applied to firearms carry by handgun owners. Tenn. Atty. Gen Op. 00-020 (February 15, 2000) (attached as Exhibit B)<sup>38</sup>.

95. Under the new law criminal penalties (Class A misdemeanor) apply unless the firearm is carried by a permit holder into a "restaurant." Legislative proponents of the bill, including the Speaker of the House, have repeatedly asserted the new law is a "restaurant carry" law and not a "guns in bar bill", stating that the law to the U.S. Constitution in some future era? Could it ever be expanded to cover guns, to ban the violence that plagues American society?).

<sup>38</sup> "2. It is the opinion of this office that there is no basis for limiting the statute's purview to places where alcohol is the sole or primary product sold. The primary rule of statutory interpretation is to give effect to the plain language of the statute. See Metropolitan Government of Nashville & Davidson County v. Motel Systems, Inc., 525 S.W.2d 840 (Tenn. 1975). Here, the statute is not unclear or contradictory, and its plain language permits no such limitation. Further, such a limitation could create vagueness and open the statute to constitutional challenge.

Applying the statute to establishments in which alcohol is the predominate product creates vagueness and ambiguity. How would one know whether alcohol is the establishment's sole or primary product so that he or she may temper his or her conduct accordingly? Ordinary people would be unable to understand where certain conduct is prohibited. See Kolender, 461 U.S. at 358, 103 S.Ct. at 1858.

In addition, law enforcement would face the same problem. It would be difficult for an officer to distinguish between legal and illegal conduct. This would, in turn, encourage arbitrary and discriminatory enforcement. It is the opinion of this office that the statute survives constitutional muster as it is written, and that the limitation proposed in question 2 might render the statute vulnerable to attack on vagueness grounds." by permitted handgun owners. Tenn. Atty. Gen Op. 00-020 (February 15, 2000)

only applies to restaurants and not bars. See "Williams Blasts Media for 'Guns in Bars' Portrayal" available at: <http://bit.ly/yyBWT> "Guns-in-restaurants bill a vote for safety", available at: <http://bit.ly/T4LIY><sup>39</sup>

96. Senator Doug Jackson also stated on WAMB radio on July 2, 2009 that HCP (hand gun permit) holders should not take their weapons into establishments that do not serve meals as their principal purpose (51%) <http://bit.ly/DFUCn>; <http://www.bobpopegunshows.com/>

97. On July 14, 2009, however, HCP (handgun permit holders) holders will have no way of knowing whether the establishment they are entering serves meals as its "principal business." The new law is therefore unconstitutionally vague because it is a Class A misdemeanor for a permit holder to carry a gun into a place that serves alcohol that is not exempted as a restaurant. Permit holders will have no notice or way to determine if an establishment is a restaurant or a bar (whether its principal purpose is serving meals) as there is no distinction by licensing laws law or notice. Compare Tex. Govt. Code § 411.204.<sup>40</sup>

<sup>39</sup> "When this bill takes effect on July 14, law-abiding citizens who undergo a safety course and criminal background check to obtain a handgun carry permit will be allowed to carry in restaurants like Chili's that happen to serve alcohol. . . . Contrary to popular belief, the bill does not allow firearms into bars. The principal business conducted by the establishment must be to serve meals, not to serve alcohol." : <http://bit.ly/T4LIY>

(a) A business that has a permit or license issued under Chapter 25, 28, 32, 69, or 74, Alcoholic Beverage Code, and that derives 51 percent or more of its income from the sale of alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption as determined by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission under Section 104.06, Alcoholic Beverage Code, shall prominently display at each entrance to the business premises a sign that complies with the requirements of Subsection (c).

(c) The sign required under Subsections (a) and (b) must give notice in both English and Spanish that it is unlawful for a person licensed under this subchapter to carry a handgun on the premises. The sign must appear in contrasting colors with block

98. This is a criminal statute and the fear of enforcement in a vague manner is unconstitutional. The law is unconstitutional on its face and as it is likely to be applied.

99. As a penal statute it must be strictly construed against the state. The permit holder acts at his or her peril with the mere armed entry into an "alcohol-serving, non-restaurant." The permit holder simply cannot know if it is a restaurant or a non-restaurant and the risk of a sanction is high.

100. The law is vague and unconstitutional in three distinct ways: a) a permit holder's threat of criminal prosecution; b) a business owner's loss of business if prospective customers guess wrong, and 3) the public who enter establishments at their unknown peril.

101. Petitioners reiterate that by law in Tennessee in order to serve liquor for on premises consumption (including establishments such as Tootsies Orchid Lounge, Graham Central Station, bars on 2nd Ave, Broadway and Beale Street) they must be licensed as "restaurants" under T.C.A. 57-4-102 (27)(A) . The clear (in fact strident) statements by lawmakers that the new law does not permit permitted handgun owners to carry firearms in "bars" (a term undefined under the law or any Tennessee statute or regulation) creates unconstitutional vagueness.

102. The due process guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution and Article 1, Section 8 of the Tennessee Constitution additionally requires that a statute be sufficiently precise to provide both fair notice to citizens of prohibited activities and minimal guidelines for enforcement to police officers and the courts. Due process of law requires, among other things, notice of what the law prohibits. Laws must “give the person of ordinary intelligence a reasonable opportunity to know what is prohibited, so that he may act accordingly.” Grayned v. City of Rockford, 408 U.S. 104, 108, (1972). Criminal statutes “must ‘define the criminal offense with sufficient definiteness that ordinary people can understand what conduct is prohibited ....’” Davis-Kidd Booksellers, Inc. v. McWherter, 866 S.W.2d 520, 532 (Tenn. 1993) (quoting Kolender v. Lawson, 461 U.S. 352, 358 (1983)). A statute is unconstitutionally vague, therefore, if it does not serve sufficient notice of what is prohibited, forcing “‘men of common intelligence [to] necessarily guess at its meaning.’” Davis-Kidd, 866 S.W.2d at 532 (quoting Broadrick v. Oklahoma, 413 U.S. 601, 607 (1973)); see also Leech v. Am. Booksellers Ass’n, Inc., 582 S.W.2d 738, 746 (Tenn. 1979). Here police officers may arrest permit holders who carry in “bars” (according to the legislators who passed and advocated the law) if the police believe the establishment’s principal business is not to serve meals. How is the officer to know? This is unconstitutional vagueness. See Tenn. Atty. Gen. Op. No. 09-69 (May 04, 2009).<sup>41</sup>

XI. ATTORNEYS’ FEES

103. Petitioners request and are entitled to an award of attorneys’ fees and litigation-related costs pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1988 and 28 U.S.C. § 1920. 42 U.S.C. § 1983 prohibits the State of Tennessee from depriving Petitioners of “rights, privileges and immunities secured by the constitutional laws” in the United States.

XII. REQUEST FOR RELIEF

<sup>41</sup> “HB 1120 [prohibiting “loitering” “for a period of time” where minors congregate] if enacted, would be subject to challenge because it would leave the question of whether a violation has occurred to the subjective judgment of the officer on the scene and would thus allow or invite arbitrary conduct by police officers.”

104. Based upon existing precedent and law, Petitioners have a substantial likelihood of success on the merits. Furthermore, there will be an immediate and irreparable harm, loss, injury and threat of injury and breaches of public safety should the guns in bar law take effect on July 14, 2009 with over 220,000 gun permit holders and permit holders in 19 reciprocity states bringing guns into drinking establishments. Petitioners seek, pursuant to Rule 65 of the Tennessee Rules of Civil Procedure, an immediate restraining order and in due course a temporary and permanent injunction to enjoin the enforcement or application of Public Law 339 and an order that the law be declared, pursuant to Rule 57 of the Tennessee Rules of Civil Procedure, a state-created public nuisance, unlawful, in violation of and preempted by the general duty safe-place-to work law, unconstitutional, void and unenforceable. Petitioners request after all the proceedings are completed that there be judgment rendered in their favor and against Robert Cooper, Jr., in his official capacity as Tennessee Attorney General ordering him to refrain from applying or enforcing Public Chapter 339. Petitioners further seek attorneys' fees and litigation costs pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1998 and 28 U.S.C § 1920 and the award of any other relief as this Court deems just and proper.

Opinion No. 00-020

Constitutionality of Tenn. Code Ann. § 39-17-1305.

QUESTIONS

1. Is Tenn. Code Ann. § 39-17-1305, which prohibits the possession of firearms where alcoholic beverages are served or sold, constitutional?
2. Should the statute's purview be limited to places where alcohol is the sole or primary product?

OPINIONS

1. Yes, Tenn. Code Ann. § 39-17-1305 is constitutional.
2. No, limiting the statute's purview to places where alcohol is the sole or primary product would likely create vagueness and thus open the statute to constitutional attack.

ANALYSIS

1. A fundamental component of both the Due Process Clause of the United States Constitution and the law of the land clause of the Tennessee Constitution is that a law is void for vagueness if its prohibitions are not clearly defined. Grayned v. City of Rockford, 408 U.S. 104, 108, 92 S.Ct. 2294 (1972); State v. Wilkins, 655 S.W.2d 914, 915 (Tenn. 1983). The Supreme Court has explained that vague laws offend several important values:

First, because we assume that a man is free to steer between lawful and unlawful conduct, we insist that laws give the person of ordinary intelligence a reasonable opportunity to know what is prohibited, so that he may act accordingly. Vague laws may trap the innocent by not providing fair warning. Second, if arbitrary and discriminatory enforcement is to be prevented, laws must provide explicit standards for those who apply them.

Grayned, 408 U.S. at 108, 92 S.Ct. at 2294. The more important of these two factors is the presence of minimal guidelines to direct law enforcement. Kolender v. Lawson, 461 U.S. 352, 358, 103 S.Ct. 1855, 1858 (1983). Nevertheless, the Supreme Court has warned:

EXHIBIT

The root of the vagueness doctrine is a rough idea of fairness. It is not a principle designed to convert into a constitutional dilemma the practical difficulties in drawing criminal statutes both general enough to take into account a variety of human conduct and sufficiently specific to provide fair warning that certain kinds of conduct are prohibited.

Colton v. Kentucky, 407 U.S. 104, 111, 93 S.Ct. 1953, 1957 (1972); State v. Strickland, S.W.2d 912, 921 (Tenn. 1975).

Tenn. Code Ann. § 39-17-1305 makes it "an offense to possess a firearm on the premises of a place open to the public where alcoholic beverages are served or in the confines of a building where alcoholic beverages are sold." Further, the Sentencing Commission's comment on the statute provides that this section "prohibits possession of weapons in areas adjacent to where alcoholic beverages are served, such as parking lots." Tenn. Code Ann. § 39-17-1305 Sentencing Commission Cmts. (1997). The phrases "premises of a place" and "confines of a building" are not vague. The terms, "sold" and "served," are also self-explanatory. The premises of a place open to the public, including its parking lot, where alcohol is served, or in the confines of a building where alcoholic beverages are sold are off limits to those carrying firearms.

An ordinary citizen could understand that the above conduct constitutes an illegal offense. Anyone not conducting themselves accordingly, outside of the few exceptions enumerated in the statute, would be subject to the penalties prescribed in the statute.

Furthermore, if a law enforcement officer came upon one possessing a firearm at any premises open to the public, including a parking lot, where alcohol is served, or in the confines of a building where alcoholic beverages are sold, the statute would enable such officer to make an arrest. No discretion or arbitrary enforcement is involved in interpreting and administering the statute; all persons violating the statute would be treated the same. In addition, all establishments serving or selling alcohol would be treated the same. It is the opinion of this office that the statute is not void for vagueness and is, thus, constitutional.

<sup>1</sup>Tenn. Code Ann. § 39-17-1305 (1997) is entitled "Possession of firearm where alcoholic beverages are served or sold" and provides as follows:

- (a) It is an offense for a person to possess a firearm on the premises of a place open to the public where alcoholic beverages are served or in the confines of a building where alcoholic beverages are sold.
- (b) A violation of this section is a Class A misdemeanor.
- (c) The provisions of subsection (a) shall not apply to a person who is:
  - (1) In the actual discharge of official duties as a law enforcement officer, or is employed in the army, air force, navy, coast guard, or marine service of the United States or any member of the Tennessee national guard in the line of duty and pursuant to military regulations, or is in the actual discharge of duties as a correctional officer employed by a penal institution; or
  - (2) On the person's own premises or premises under the person's control or who is the employee or agent of the owner of the premises with responsibility for protecting persons or property.

ORDER

This cause came to be heard on November 20, 2009 on Petitioners' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment and on Defendant's Cross- Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings and/or for Summary Judgment.

The Court heard oral argument on the motions and considered the briefs, affidavits and other filings submitted to the Court by the parties.

After oral arguments the parties agreed that The State of Tennessee should be added as a party-defendant to this action.

Accordingly it is ORDERED that the State of Tennessee is added as a party-defendant in this case.

For the reasons set forth in the Excerpt of the Proceedings, attached hereto and fully incorporated herein, the Court GRANTS Petitioners' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment as to the Ninth Count in Petitioners' Second Amended Complaint and finds T.C.A. § 39-17-1305(c)(3) unconstitutional because the language in T.C.A. § 39-17-

1305(c)(3)(B) "and the serving of such meals shall be the principal business conducted" is void for vagueness.

For the reasons set forth in the Excerpt of the Proceedings, attached hereto and fully incorporated herein, the Court DENIES Petitioners' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment on the two other grounds sought by Plaintiffs: TOSHA and OSHA preemption (Fourth Count) and unconstitutional delegation of police and legislative power (Tenth Count) and correspondingly GRANTS Defendant's Cross- Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings and/or for Summary Judgment as to grounds seven (unconstitutional delegation of police and legislative power) and eight (TOSHA and OSHA preemption). The Court DENIES Defendant's Cross- Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings and/or for Summary Judgment as to all other grounds.

Pursuant to Tenn. R. Civ. P. 54.02 the Court ORDERS, determines and finds that there is no just reason for delay and directs that this judgment is a final judgment.

The Court has made corrections in the transcript

The issue 1 which parties have standing is not a permanent

PROCEEDINGS

THE COURT: Lawyers and parties,
this is a bench ruling, and it will include all my definitions and judgment of the law. But when cases were clear as that, in case that it's probably going to go to the Court of Appeals, then we make every effort we can to render a bench ruling <sup>rather than the case</sup> ~~taking things under guidelines~~ <sup>advisement.</sup>

This lawsuit was brought by the plaintiffs ~~in~~ <sup>seeking</sup> ~~part of~~ a declaratory judgment that legislation passed in 2009, and codified at TCA Section 39-17-1305(c) ~~is~~ <sup>is</sup> unconstitutional or otherwise illegal. The plaintiffs -- some of the plaintiffs are citizens who are gun permit holders. Other plaintiffs are restaurant owners and wait staff at restaurants. All the plaintiffs moved for a a partial summary judgment that the statute or the section of the statute was unconstitutional because it's <sup>is</sup> void for vagueness. And the Attorney General filed a ~~the~~ cross motion to dismiss the void ~~of~~ <sup>for</sup> ~~vagueness~~ <sup>is</sup> claims brought by these plaintiffs. The plaintiffs and the State agree there are no material facts in dispute, and the question is one of law. There are other

1 issues in the overall case, but these other
2 issues are not the subject of summary judgment.

3 Because the question is one of
4 law, the Attorney General by intent did not file
5 a statement of undisputed facts to support his 6 cross judgment, and also the State, who's been 7 added as a defendant in this general comment or 8 statement of the case.

9 I don't want the Court of Appeals
10 to be looking for -- to do what I did, which was 11 to look for statements of undisputed facts from 12 all the parties because they're just not there.
13 There<sup>is</sup> a reason why they're not there. The 14 Attorney General responded to the plaintiffs'
15 statement of undisputed facts that the 16 statements were either opinions, and not fact;
17 or were an interpretation of the law, and not
18 fact; or were a legal argument policy statement,
19 and not fact.

20 The first plaintiffs and the
21 intervening plaintiffs advanced an identical
22 statement; that is, they advanced a statement of 23 undisputed fact that were the same statements.
24 So the time spent by the Court in understanding 25 the facts in the case are limited to facts which

1 set the context or the background for the 2 lawsuit.

3 <sup>3</sup> Now ~~the~~ the Rayburn plaintiffs, which
4 included Mr. Randy Rayburn and John Doe
5 plaintiffs, also moved for summary judgment
6 based on their theory that there's been an
7 unconstitutional delegation of police power;
8 that is, that the statute creates an 9 unconstitutional delegation of police power in 10 that the restaurants can opt out by -- in part 11 opt out by placing signs in their -- on their 12 private properties. And the Rayburn plaintiffs 13 and intervening plaintiffs -- I'm sorry -- the 14 Rayburn plaintiffs and the John Doe plaintiffs
15 also take the position that there is a
16 preemption, that OSHA preempts this statute
17 under its general duty clause.

18 The issues in the case: The
19 plaintiffs, <sup>(the gun permit holders)</sup> that is the John Doe plaintiffs 10
20 and 11, state that the statute is so vague, that 21 it offends due process guarantees in the federal 22 and statute constitutions.

23 First, the plaintiff gun permit
24 holders contend because they cannot know which 25 place ~~is~~ <sup>is</sup> serving alcohol, wine, or beer, meet

1 the definition of restaurant under the act,
2 there's no fair warning about what<sup>is</sup> prohibited,
3 <sup>that</sup> so people carrying guns lawfully may act
4 accordingly.

5 Second, say the plaintiffs, the 6 State's failure to provide a definition of 7 "restaurant," which can be known, invites the 8 arbitrary and discriminatory enforcement of a 9 criminal law. In other words, the police cannot 10 know what place is a restaurant under the act.

11 The Melrose plaintiffs contend that
12 they meet the definition of restaurant under TCA
13 39-17-1305; and they face the possibility that 14 police may charge them with aiding and abetting
15 if they serve alcohol to a permit holder who 16 carries a gun. The Melrose plaintiffs contend
17 the option of posting a sign, which is found at 18 TCA 39-17-1359, may not protect them from 19 prosecution. The Melrose plaintiffs adopt the 20 John Doe plaintiffs' arguments of vagueness.

21 The remaining plaintiffs, Mr.
22 Rayburn and the other John Does, first raise the 23 void <sup>for</sup> ~~of~~ vagueness issues from the perspective of 24 wait staff and restaurant owners. They move for 25 a partial summary judgment based upon the

1 unconstitutional delegation of police powers and
2 preemption by virtue of Tennessee's OSHA's
3 general duty clause.

4 The Rayburn plaintiffs contend
5 there's no fair warning to their customers, to 6 them, or to customers; and they're exposed to 7 arbitrary prosecution by law enforcement.

8 The Rayburn plaintiffs advance
9 <sup>CS</sup> ~~that~~ the idea that no-gun postings option leaves
10 it to restaurant owners whether to ban guns
11 where alcohol is served, even though in general,
12 firearms are not allowed where alcohol is 13 served.

14 Last, the Rayburn plaintiffs
15 contend that, as I've stated before, that OSHA
16 requires a safe work environment, and it trumps
17 TCA 39-17-1305.

18 The Attorney General seeks
19 dismissal of the plaintiffs' claims on summary
20 judgment because Chancery Court does not have 21 subject matter jurisdiction over declaratory
22 judgment cases which challenge validity of a
23 criminal law. Only the -- according to the 24 State, only the Criminal Courts or Circuit
25 Courts with the criminal jurisdiction have

1 subject matter jurisdiction, and that these
2 courts of equity do not.

3 The Attorney General also asserts
4 that the plaintiffs' lawsuit is not justiciable
5 because the entire controversy depends upon
6 hypothetical situations in theory rather than 7 actual legal issues. The restaurant owners,
8 according to the State, may avoid any possible
9 problem by opting for a no-weapons policy on 10 their private properties. The owners' fear of 11 prosecution, according to the State and the 12 Attorney General, is not a real fear because if the 13 owner ~~he~~ does not reasonably know a gun permit holder
14 has a gun, a charge of aiding and abetting is 15 not proper or appropriate.

16 The plaintiffs who wish to carry
17 weapons into restaurants selling alcohol will 18 invalidate a law~~x~~ and therefore, be unable to 19 carry at all times where alcohol is served. And 20 the State makes the argument that this is an 21 illogical conclusion if you believe that the 22 plaintiffs have a true motivation.

23 The Attorney General seeks
24 dismissal for another reason. The district
25 attorney generals are not parties; and the

declaratory judgment statute
1 ~~declaration of statement~~ provides that all
2 persons who have an interest must be made
3 parties.

4           The Attorney General and the State
5 have no authority to enforce TCA 37-17-1305; nor
6 to interfere with the district attorney
7 generals' prosecutorial discretion. The 8 Attorney General and the State also take the 9 position that 39-17-1305 is not vague. All the 10 criteria for a restaurant in the definition as 11 the statute are knowable by the ordinary 12 citizen. If a permit holder has a doubt, he 13 should not carry his weapon. As a practical
14 matter, a mistake by a permit holder is not 15 criminal intent; and the gun carrier would not 16 be prosecuted.

17           Now the Attorney General also -- 18 and the State also assert that TCA 39-17-1305 is 19 not preempted by OSHA. There's no authority
20 otherwise. The Attorney General and the State
21 contend the option to post "no weapons" at TCA
22 39-17-1305(9) is proper because it only
23 addresses private property, and not <sup>(C)</sup> public
24 thoroughfares.

25           And last, the State contends that

1 if any part of the restaurant definition is
2 unconstitutionally vague, and it violates due
3 process; and here the Attorney General and the 4 State were looking specifically at the last 5 criteria for a restaurant; that is that the 6 restaurant be primarily in the business of 7 serving food, or getting its income from food—
8 ~~then~~ the Court can remove that offending
9 provision without altering the intent of the 10 state legislature.

11 Now, of all of those issues that 12 the Court has summarized that the parties are 13 advancing, the issues that the Court will decide
14 today are: (1) Is there subject matter
15 jurisdiction? (2) Is TCA 39-17-1305(c)
16 unconstitutional because it's void for 17 vagueness? and therefore, ~~it~~ violates ~~the~~ the 18 due process clauses of the constitution? ~~or four:~~ 19 does OSHA preempt the state statute? Five:
20 Does the statute allow the unconstitutional
21 delegation of state police powers?
22 And the Court summarizes its 23 decision here that the Court finds it does have 24 subject matter jurisdiction in the case. The 25 Court finds that TCA 39-17-1305(c) does violate

1 the due process rights of the plaintiffs,
2 generally, the plaintiffs, <sup>CS</sup> gun permit holders
3 because the language, "the serving of such meals
4 shall be the principal <sup>CS</sup> business conducted,"
5 cannot be known to the ordinary citizen.

6 Inquiry would not be satisfactory or helpful.

7 The Court finds the plaintiffs'
8 other theories are not supported by authority
9 such that the theories have merit; and the 10 motion for summary judgment or a partial summary
11 judgment is denied as to the other plaintiffs'
12 theories.

13 As to the findings of fact, there
14 are no material facts in dispute. The facts
15 available to the Court which bear upon the legal 16 issues are whether the definition of 17 "restaurant" in TCA-39-17-1305 can be easily
18 known or can be known at all. In addition,
19 certain of the plaintiffs have shown -- and 20 these are the <sup>just</sup> ~~general~~ permit holders -- have 21 shown that they intend to carry a gun into 22 restaurants which serve alcohol. And the 23 officials charged with the regulations <sup>CS</sup>
24 enforcement, that is a police chief or sheriff,
25 has threatened to use sanctions against persons

1 who violate TCA 39-17-1305.

2 As to the principles of law in the 3 case, rather than read legislation into the 4 record, the Court will attach to a bench ruling
5 a copy of TCA 39-17-1305 and TCA 39-17-1359 as 6 Collective Exhibit 1; and I'll make those 7 available to the court reporter.

8 And then as to the principles of 9 law, as a fundamental component of both the due
10 process clause of the United State Constitution
11 and the Law of the Land clause of the Tennessee
12 Constitution is that a law is void for vagueness
13 if its prohibitions are not clearly defined.
14 Gray Med vs. City of Rockford, 408 US 104, a
15 1972 U.S. Supreme Court case. And the Court
16 also cites State vs. Wilkins, 655 SW 2nd, 914, a 17 Tennessee Supreme Court case, 1983.

18 The Supreme Court has explained
19 that vague laws offend several important values.
20 First, because we assume when a man is free to 21 steer between lawful and unlawful conduct, we 22 insist that laws give the person of ordinary
23 intelligence a reasonable opportunity to know
24 what is prohibited so that he may act
25 accordingly. Vague laws may <sup>trap</sup>~~attract~~ the

1 innocent by not providing fair warning.

2 Second, if arbitrary and
3 discriminatory enforcement is to be prevented,
4 laws must provide explicit standards for those 5 who apply them. And this is the citation from 6 Gray Med at page 108.

7 The more important of these two
8 factors is the presence of minimal guidelines to 9 direct law enforcement. And here the Court is 10 citing Collinder vs. Lawson, 461 US 352, a 1983
11 U.S. Supreme Court case. Nevertheless, the 12 Supreme Court has warned the root of the 13 vagueness doctrine is a rough idea of fairness.
14 It's not a principle designed to convert into a
15 constitutional dilemma the practical
16 difficulties in drawing criminal statutes, both 17 general enough to take into account a variety of 18 human conduct, and sufficiently specific to 19 provide fair warning that certain kinds of 20 conduct are prohibited. This is from Colton vs.
21 Kentucky, 407, US 104, a U.S. Supreme Court case
22 decided in 1972. And the language is also 23 stated or quoted in State vs. Stricklin, a 24 southwest -- a Tennessee Supreme Court case in 25 1975.

1                   As to the subject matter
2 jurisdiction, which I really should have
3 evaluated first because if the Court doesn't 4 have subject matter jurisdiction, the void for 5 vagueness analysis doesn't matter. But going
6 slightly backwards, I did do some work, like all
7 the parties did, to find enough cases --
8 reported cases in Tennessee that set a pattern,
9 which we would like to have a case that just 10 sets out like a law that says that a Chancery
11 Court sitting as a <sup>Court</sup> ~~board~~ of equity, which it
12 does, has subject matter jurisdiction over
13 declaratory <sup>3</sup> ~~action~~ judgment actions which 14 evaluate criminal laws. There are plenty of 15 cases in Tennessee which say that the Chancery
16 Court must not enjoin the enforcement of 17 criminal statutes; and I think all the lawyers
18 in the room realize that that's the case, <sup>but</sup> ~~but~~ 19 looking for and finding a case which just says,
20 "Yes, Chancery Court does have jurisdiction on 21 declaratory judgment actions to evaluate 22 criminal laws," <sup>the</sup> ~~the~~ way this Court came to its 23 conclusion that it has subject matter
24 jurisdiction is by looking at four cases and the 25 ALR. And those cases are Parlor vs. Buckner, in

1    which the Chancery Court entertained a lawsuit
2    which looked at whether it can determine the 3    constitutionality of laws declaring the 4    operation of poolrooms <sup>C3</sup> as unlawful under the 5    declaratory judgment act. And although there's 6    some language in this case, which discusses
7    whether there were property rights involved,
8    which would be a special case; the general
9    language in the case seems to indicate that the 10   property rights are not the real issue; that the 11   real issue is whether the plaintiffs have a 12   special interest in the question of the 13   constitutionality of a penal statute distinct 14   from the interest of the public generally. And 15   the Court stated in that case: "We <sup>C3</sup> are of the 16   opinion that a person so situated is entitled to 17   bring and maintain an action for the 18   determination of the proper construction or 19   constitutionality of such statutes under the 20   provisions of a declaratory judgment act." And 21   the bill in the present case, which this Court
22   must resolve in Chancery Court, was properly
23   filed against the sheriff in view of the 24   development of the bill, that the sheriff had 25   given notice of his intent to proceed against

1 the complainant. And then this Court goes on to 2 say that the Chancery Court cannot issue an
3 injunction, but it does appear that the Supreme 4 Court in this case held that the lawsuit was 5 properly brought in the Chancery Court; and that 6 was a 1927 case.

7 And then the next case is -- that
8 this Court is relying on to find subject matter B
9 jurisdiction is Clinton Books vs. City of 10 Memphis, in which Justice Janice Holder held 11 that the Circuit Court acting as a court of 12 equity, lacked jurisdiction to enjoin
13 enforcement of the criminal statute, but she
14 sent the case back for the Circuit Court to rule
15 on the merits of the business' constitutional
16 claims. And I don't know why she would have 17 sent it back to Circuit Court, or that the 18 Supreme Court would have sent it back to Circuit
19 Court, if the Circuit Court had not had 20 jurisdiction over the question. And what the 21 record needs to show is that in Clinton Books
22 vs. City of Memphis, which is a 2006 Supreme 23 Court case -- a state Supreme Court case, the 24 Circuit Court was -- did not have original
25 jurisdiction over criminal cases. And the

1 Circuit Court in many ways exercised in Clinton
2 Books the same jurisdiction that this Chancery
3 Court is exercising today. It has to be noted
4 that the city of Memphis and Shelby County has a
5 separate criminal court. So now we see that a
6 civil court of record has subject matter
7 jurisdiction for purposes of getting the case
8 sent back to them to <sup>C3</sup> the rule on the merits of a
9 declaratory judgment addressing a criminal
10 statute.

11 The next case the Court looked at 12 to determine subject matter jurisdiction is 13 Campbell vs. Sundquist. And in that case, the 14 Circuit Court in Davidson County addressed a 15 criminal <sup>Statute C</sup> ~~case~~; did not issue an injunction. And 16 I think he was -- I don't believe Judge <sup>Kurtz</sup> ~~Kirtz~~ <sup>C3</sup>
17 was asked to issue an injunction, but in that 18 case, the Court of Appeals said that --
19 addressed the merits of a declaratory judgment
20 action. And Appeals Court Judge <sup>Centrell C3</sup> ~~Hessel~~ did not 21 believe -- did not necessarily say that the 22 Circuit Court had subject matter jurisdiction,
23 but the other judges did; and that's the law of 24 the land.

25 And then the last case is Grubb

1 vs. Mayor and Alderman of Morrison. This is a
2 1947 case. And you'll see if I didn't have it
3 in here. Well, this says Chancery Court had 4 jurisdiction of a suit by the holders of their 5 permit for a declaratory judgment as to the 6 <sup>legality</sup> ~~levy~~ of a city ordinance prohibiting the sale
7 of beer, and which did not involve a property
8 right in 1947, because the property right was 9 not recognized at that time. It's been 10 recognized since. But at that time, the 11 chancellor was found to have jurisdiction over 12 that particular declaratory judgment. And those 13 are the cases on which the Court is relying.
14 <sup>3</sup> ~~In ALR~~, 10 ALR 3rd, 727, throws <sup>3</sup>
15 some light on why it is that Tennessee doesn't 16 have maybe a bright-line case addressing this 17 subject. And that ALR article analysis is: "It
18 now seems reasonably well settled that in an 19 otherwise proper case, declaratory relief may be 20 granted notwithstanding the fact that the 21 declaration is as to validity of a statute
22 having criminal ~~and~~ <sup>or</sup> penal provisions. And 23 it seems ~~clear~~ <sup>clear</sup> under the modern practice in 24 most courts that declaratory relief will not 25 denied merely because the petitioner, by

1 violating the statute or ordinance in question,
2 ~~to~~ <sup>could</sup> have the issue of guilt tried out in a
3 criminal prosecution. In the earlier cases
4 following general attitudes <sup>of</sup> ~~through~~ the equity
5 courts, the view seemed to be that a declaration
6 would <sup>more</sup> be readily <sup>be</sup> given where property rights
7 were threatened than where purely personal
8 rights were involved. But <sup>the</sup> ~~modern~~ trend seems to 9 be toward the protection of the personal, as 10 well as property rights. Accordingly, where the 11 petitioner is threatened with an
12 unconstitutional deprivation of either property
13 or personal rights <sup>and</sup> and to remit him to the 14 ordinary processes of criminal law would, under 15 the circumstances, deprive him of a speedy and 16 an effective remedy. <sup>And</sup> ~~And~~ it seems that the 17 courts will now readily entertain an action for 18 declaratory relief. However, the petition must 19 present <sup>an</sup> ~~actual~~ and <sup>citible</sup> ~~justiable~~ controversy, <sup>the</sup> ~~The~~ 20 case must be one in which the declaration will 21 be effective to settle the question, and 22 terminate the controversy, <sup>and</sup> and all the parties
23 whose rights are substantially and directly
24 affected by the declaration must be before the 25 court." So it's not that it's <sup>a</sup> ~~free-for-all~~, but

1 it does appear that Chancery has subject matter
2 jurisdiction of this case.

3 As to the arguments and applying
4 the law to the case, under current law, firearms
5 are prohibited where alcohol is served. And 6 this is at 39-17-1305(a). As currently written,
7 the law is clear and unambiguous as "currently"
8 meaning before the exception was presented.
9 It's easily understood and easily applied by 10 business owners and authorized owners of 11 firearms. This statute in its section (a) makes 12 it a criminal offense for a patron to carry a 13 firearm into any establishment that serves
14 alcohol. While it remains unlawful in Tennessee
15 to carry firearms into establishments that serve
16 alcohol, the new provisions of section (c) of 17 this same statute creates <sup>3</sup> a new exception that 18 allows persons who are authorized to carry
19 firearms into restaurants so long as that person
20 is not consuming alcohol, beer, or wine. The 21 exception, which is section (c) of the statute,
22 replaces what historically has been a bright-
23 line rule with the new exception fraught with 24 ambiguity. The new exception of the prohibition
25 against firearms where alcohol is served creates

1     ambiguity where none existed before, and is
2     vague on its face in that it fails to satisfy
3     the constitutional standards of fair warning and 4     fair enforcement.

5                     Law enforcement officials are no
6     better suited to make the difficult judgment
7     call as to whether the serving of meals
8     constitutes the principal business of an
9     establishment, such that the presence of a 10    handgun on the premises would be legal or 11    illegal. The lack of clarity, an explicit 12    standard, specifically directed to whether the 13    restaurant is in the business of primarily 14    serving of meals -- the principal business of 15    serving meals, fails to discuss either fair
16    enforcement standards as well.

17                    And as further analysis, the Court
18    finds that the other criteria in the statute,
19    which have to do with determining whether the 20    restaurant is open for serving meals five days a
21    week, or serving one meal a day, it's not 22    difficult for the ordinary person or patron to 23    discern because most restaurants, which serve
24    food, want the public to know that they serve 25    food; and advertise the service of food in

1 writing on the walls, in writing on the menus,
2 in writing in ads. And the Court finds and 3 believes that the ordinary citizen can make
4 inquiry of restaurant workers -- or excuse me --
5 restaurant worker -- entity workers as to the 6 service of meals, and the frequency of the 7 service of meals; and that this information can 8 be fairly, easily known to the patron. However,
9 the language that the Court has pointed out as 10 being unfairly vague cannot be easily known, and 11 may never be known by a patron as a matter of 12 fact.

13 And going back now to the issues
14 in this case: Does the Chancery Court have 15 subject matter jurisdiction over this
16 declaratory judgment <sup>act</sup> which addresses a 17 criminal statute? And the Court has found that,
18 yes, the Chancery Court does have subject matter
19 jurisdiction.

20 Is TCA 39-17-1305 unconstitutional
21 because it's void for vagueness? And the Court
22 finds here that the specific language that the 23 Court has focused upon; <sup>is</sup> that is that the 24 business is in "the principal business of the 25 serving of meals or food" is void for vagueness.

The next issue<sup>5</sup>, does OSHA preempt this state statute? And the Court finds here that there is a failure of authority for such a theory.

Number five: Does the statute allow the unconstitutional delegation of the state police power? And here the Court agrees with the State and the Attorney General that there is a distinction between the facts in this case, which allow the private property owner to regulate its own private -- exclusively private space; and that the cases cited by the plaintiffs raise the issue of private owners regulating and managing public space when, in fact, the law at issue in those cases was that -- was there to enhance the public welfare, and to protect the public.

18 And lawyers, I'm just asking the 19 plaintiffs to order just the bench ruling; to 20 file that bench ruling; and then please submit a
21 judgment. And I think this should be a -- I 22 think probably all of you will agree, it would 23 be a Rule 54. Do you think? I sort of got the 24 impression because you filed a partial summary
25 judgment motion, and the State responded; that

1       you would want this issue to be examined <sup>before</sup> ~~for~~ the 2       rest of the case. <sup>3</sup>

3               MR. SMITH: Yes, your Honor. We
4       can respond in the final order.

5               THE COURT: Okay. I think maybe
6       one of you mentioned that to me at the 7       injunction hearing, but I don't want to make 8       that decision for you.

9               MR. SMITH: Thank you.

10              THE COURT: Okay. So if you
11       include that in the order, and then incorporate 12       the bench ruling, I think that will get it.

13              MR. SMITH: And we will add the 14       State as parties also because that's by 15       agreement.

16              THE COURT: Okay. Because that's 17       by agreement.

18              MR. SMITH: Thank you.

19              THE COURT: Okay. I think that's 20       it. We're in adjournment.

21              COURT OFFICER: All rise.

NOTES OF DECISIONS

In general 2

Validity 1

1. Validity

Section 39-17-1305 is constitutional; however, limiting the statute's purview to places where alcohol is the sole or primary product would likely create vagueness and thus open the statute to constitutional attack. Op.Atty.Gen. No. 00-020, Feb. 15, 2000.

Section 39-17-1307(a), making it an offense to carry a firearm with the intent to go armed; § 39-17-1309, making it an offense to carry a firearm on school property; § 39-17-1311, making it an offense to possess or carry a firearm with the intent to go armed in a public park or recreational facility; and § 39-17-1305, making it an offense to possess a firearm on any premises where alcoholic beverages are sold; are all a valid exercise of the state's regulatory authority under Article I, Section 26 of the Tennessee Constitution and are therefore constitutional. Op.Atty.Gen. No. 96-080 April 25, 1996.

2. In general

Sale of beer from establishment wherein guns are sold and repaired would interfere with public health, safety and morals within meaning of statute prohibiting carrying dangerous weapons into establishment licensed to sell alcoholic beverages. T.C.A. § 39-6-1717. Gibbs v. Blount County Beer Bd., 1984, 664 S.W.2d 68. Intoxicating Liquors  71

A court would most likely interpret the term "alcoholic beverages" in § 39-17-1305(a) to exclude beer, thereby permitting the carrying of a weapon into an establishment that sells beer with an alcohol content of 5% by weight or less. Op.Atty.Gen. No. 00-031, Feb. 22, 2000.

An off duty law enforcement officer not actually discharging his or her official duties is not permitted to carry a weapon on premises that sell or serve alcohol, on school property, nor on recreational grounds. An off duty law enforcement officer not actually discharging his or her official duties during a judicial proceeding or who has not been subpoenaed to be a witness in the judicial proceeding is not permitted to carry a weapon during that judicial proceeding. Op.Atty.Gen. No. 99-024, Feb. 16, 1999.
