DEFENDANTS' UNOPPOSED MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE AN ENLARGED BRIEF

Defendant City of Chicago ("City"), by its counsel, Stephen R. Patton, Corporation Counsel for the City of Chicago, and Defendant Village of Oak Park, by its counsel, Ranjit J. Hakim and Alexandra E. Shea of Mayer Brown, LLP (collectively, "Defendants"), hereby move this Court for leave to file an enlarged brief in response to Plaintiffs' Memorandum and Supplemental Memorandum in Support of Their Motion for Attorney's Fees. In support of their Motion, Defendants state as follows:

1. On January 18, 2012, Plaintiffs filed their Motion for Attorney's Fees and Memorandum in Support thereof. Plaintiffs' Exhibits to their Motion and Memorandum include voluminous billing records from Stephen Halbrook and the law firms of Goodwin Proctor, King & Spalding, Bancroft PLLC, Freeborn & Peters, Brenner Ford, and Cooper & Kirk, as well as other supporting materials.

2. At the Court's request, Plaintiffs thereafter filed a Supplemental Memorandum in Support of their Motion for Attorney's Fees on February 15, 2012.

3. Under Local Rule 7.1, Defendants' response memorandum cannot exceed fifteen pages in length without prior leave of court.

4. In light of the arguments contained in Plaintiffs' two briefs, as well as the volume of Plaintiffs' billing records and other supporting materials, Defendants require a total of twenty-three pages to adequately raise all of the grounds upon which they oppose Plaintiffs' Motion. A copy of Defendants' proposed Response to Plaintiffs' Motion for Attorneys' Fees is attached hereto as Exhibit 1. Without the additional space, Defendants would have to abandon important grounds for objecting to Plaintiffs' fee request and/or not fully develop them for the Court's consideration.

5. Defendants have attempted to keep their arguments as short as possible so as to minimize the amount of additional space required.

6. Defendants' counsel has conferred with Plaintiffs' counsel, and Plaintiffs have no objection to Defendants' motion.

WHEREFORE, for the foregoing reasons, Defendants respectfully request that this Court grant them leave to file an enlarged Response to Plaintiffs' Motion for Attorney's Fees in the form attached hereto as Exhibit 1, and grant Defendants such further relief as the Court deems just and appropriate.

Date: March 26, 2012

Statutes

Defendant City of Chicago (“City”), by its counsel, Stephen R. Patton, Corporation Counsel for the City of Chicago, and Defendant Village of Oak Park, by its counsel, Ranjit J. Hakim and Alexandra E. Shea of Mayer Brown, LLP (collectively, “Defendants”), hereby file their Response to Plaintiffs’ Motion for Attorneys’ Fees.

INTRODUCTION

Plaintiffs ask this Court to award them a staggering $2,195,323.29 in attorneys’ fees and costs pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1988, in addition to any further amounts they incur in pursuing their fees. This amount would be patently excessive and unprecedented in any case, but it is particularly unreasonable for a case in which absolutely no discovery occurred and which involved just one issue: Whether the Second Amendment is incorporated via the Fourteenth Amendment. The sheer number of lawyers Plaintiffs employed in this case is alone extraordinary, and the hours those attorneys recorded are unreasonable, particularly in light of the self-described expertise of Plaintiffs’ lead attorney, Stephen Halbrook, in Second Amendment and incorporation jurisprudence resulting from three decades of researching, writing, and litigating those issues. And Plaintiffs’ fee petition stands in stark contrast to that submitted by the plaintiffs in McDonald v. City of Chicago, which was litigated in lock-step with Plaintiffs’ case at every stage and was the case in which the Supreme Court granted certiorari and resulted in the decision which bestows prevailing party status on Plaintiffs here. Unlike Plaintiffs’ long roster of attorneys, McDonald was litigated with just one lead attorney and one local counsel, and their total fee recovery was $399,950. There is simply no justifiable reason why Plaintiffs here needed approximately $1.8 million more than the McDonald plaintiffs to litigate their case, especially when Supreme Court stated that the answer to the due process argument Plaintiffs claim warranted their special involvement was already “unmistakably” provided by District of Columbia v. Heller, 554 U.S. 570 (2008). See McDonald v. City of Chicago, 130 S.Ct. 3020, 3036 (2010).

At bottom, Plaintiffs' staffing of this case was unnecessary and unreasonable, and those excesses should not be shifted to Defendants. For the reasons discussed below, the Court should reduce Plaintiffs' lodestar calculation to $580,783.54 and then further reduce that amount to no more than $399,950, which is what the McDonald plaintiffs have demonstrated is a reasonable fee for a case of this nature.

LEGAL STANDARD

Pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1988, the court, "in its discretion," may award "a reasonable attorney's fee as part of the costs" to a prevailing party in an action to enforce a provision of 42 U.S.C. § 1983. 42 U.S.C. § 1988. "The amount of the fee . . . must be determined on the facts of each case." Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 429 (1983). In deciding what constitutes a reasonable award of attorneys' fees, the starting point is the "lodestar" analysis, which requires the court to multiply the number of hours reasonably spent by the prevailing party's attorneys by their reasonable hourly rates. Id. at 433. See also City of Burlington v. Dague, 505 U.S. 557, 559 (1992). The burden is on the party seeking fees to present evidence of the reasonableness of the hours worked and the requested rates. Hensley, 461 U.S. at 433.

"The determination of an attorney's 'reasonably hourly rate' is to be based on the 'market rate' for the services rendered." Spegon v. Catholic Bishop of Chicago, 175 F.3d 544, 554 (7th Cir. 1999). An attorney's "market rate is the rate that lawyers of similar ability and experience in the community normally charge their paying clients for the type of work in question." Id. at 555 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). "The attorney's actual billing rate for comparable work is 'presumptively appropriate' to use as the market rate." Id. (quoting People Who Care v. Rockford Bd. of Educ., Sch. Dist. No. 205, 90 F.3d 1307, 1310 (7th Cir. 1996)). If the attorney does not have an actual billing rate, “then the court should look to the next best evidence--the rate charged by lawyers in the community of ‘reasonably comparable skill, experience, and reputation.’” People Who Care, 90 F.3d at 1310 (quoting Blum v. Stenson, 465 U.S. 886, 895 n.11 (1984)). Attorneys seeking fees cannot rely solely on their own affidavits as evidence of the market rate. See Blum, 465 U.S. at 895 n.11. See also Spegon, 175 F.3d at 556 (“An attorney’s self-serving affidavit alone cannot satisfy the plaintiff’s burden of establishing the market rate for that attorney’s services.”). If the prevailing attorney provides evidence of the market rate, the burden shifts to the opposing party to show why a lower rate should be awarded. See Uphoff v. Elegant Bath, Ltd., 176 F.3d 399, 407 (7th Cir. 1999). The court may make its own rate determination if the prevailing attorney fails to meet its evidentiary burden. Id. at 409.

The attorney must also submit evidence of the hours reasonably spent on the litigation. “Hours spent are not reasonably expended if they are excessive, redundant, or otherwise unnecessary.” Stark v. PPM America, Inc., 354 F.3d 666, 674 (7th Cir. 2004). See also Hensley, 461 U.S. at 434 (noting that “cases may be overstaffed”). The prevailing attorney must make a good faith effort to exclude from the fee request any hours that were unnecessary or redundant. Hensley, 461 U.S. at 434. “Put another way, hours that an attorney would not properly bill to his or her client in the private sector cannot properly be billed to the adverse party under a fee-shifting statute such as” section 1988. Spegon, 175 F.3d at 552. The district courts “are encouraged to scrutinize fee petitions for duplicative billing when multiple lawyers seek fees.” Schlacher v. Law Offices of Phillip J. Rotche & Assocs., 574 F.3d 852, 858 (7th Cir. 2009).

Once the court calculates the lodestar amount, the court may discount that amount based on a number of factors, including evidence of fee “awards in similar cases.” Hensley, 461 U.S. at 430 n.3 (citing Johnson v. Georgia Highway Express, Inc., 488 F.2d 714, 717-19 (5th Cir. 1974)). See also id. at 434 n.9 (expressly authorizing the court to consider the factors set forth in Johnson); People Who Care, 90 F.3d at 1310. The “essential goal in shifting fees (to either party) is to do rough justice, not to achieve auditing perfection. So trial courts may take into account their overall sense of a suit, and may use estimates in calculating and allocating an attorney’s time.” Fox v. Vice, 131 S.Ct. 2205, 2216 (2011). The district court’s determinations are given great deference and reviewed for an abuse of discretion because of “the district court’s superior understanding of the litigation and the desirability of avoiding frequent appellate review of what essentially are factual matters.” Hensley, 461 U.S. at 437.

ARGUMENT

I. Defendants’ Objections To Plaintiffs’ Lodestar Calculations.

A. Objections to the Rate and Hours Submitted Stephen Halbrook.

Plaintiffs seek a total of $1,312,039.99 in fees and expenses for work performed by Stephen Halbrook alone.¹ See Plaintiffs National Rifle Association et al. Motion for Attorney’s Fees (“Pl. Motion.”), Ex. 1 at 2. Defendants object to the reasonableness of both the rate sought by Halbrook and the number of hours for which he seeks payment.

1. The evidence does not support an hourly rate of $800.

Contrary to Plaintiffs’ assertions, the declaration submitted by Halbrook does not support his requested hourly market rate of $800. At the outset, Halbrook fails to demonstrate that his actual hourly billable rate is $800. He does not state in his declaration that he has ever charged and/or received $800 per hour for providing legal services to any client nor does he provide any evidence that he has ever been awarded $800 per hour by a court for his legal services. Because the record is devoid of any evidence demonstrating that Halbrook's actual billing rate is $800 per hour, he is not entitled to the presumption that $800 is his market rate.

Indeed, the only evidence Halbrook provides regarding his actual hourly rate belies his claim to $800 per hour. He asserts that "[s]ince 1997, I have charged the NRA [the client at issue here] a low hourly rate of $225 with the motivation that I am performing services partially pro bono." Pl. Mem., Ex. 3 at 10. Halbrook further states that he charges other clients in firearms matters between $400 and $500 per hour and attaches a client bill reflecting work on a "McDonald Memo" at a $500 hourly rate. Id. at 11 & Ex. I. Thus, based on Halbrook's own declaration, it is well within the Court's discretion to conclude that Halbrook's actual billable rate is between $225 and $500 per hour and deny his request for an hourly rate in this case above $500.

Furthermore, Halbrook has failed to provide any evidence that $800 is the market rate charged by lawyers with comparable skill, experience, and reputation, and the Court can therefore determine the appropriate market rate for Halbrook's services. See People Who Care, 90 F.3d at 1310. First, Halbrook's assertion in his declaration that $800 is a "reasonable rate" is self-serving and cannot alone serve as the basis for his market rate. See Blum, 465 U.S. at 895 n.11; Spegon, 175 F.3d at 556. Second, Halbrook's claim to an $800 hourly rate is completely unsubstantiated by any evidence whatsoever. He fails to include an affidavit from any attorney demonstrating that $800 is the market hourly rate for an attorney with like skills, experience, and reputation in a similar case.

To the extent Halbrook is relying upon the affidavits of Paul Clement and Kevin P. Martin to establish his market rate, that reliance is misplaced. Neither Clement nor Martin ever attest that Halbrook is similar to them or any attorney at their firms in skill or experience, that they have a basis for determining what the market hourly rate for an attorney of Halbrook's skill and experience would be in a like case, or that $800 would, in fact, be Halbrook's market hourly rate. And any assertion by Halbrook that his rate is comparable to that of Clement and Martin's partner, Stephen Poss, is not only unsubstantiated by any evidence but also contradicted by the fact that Clement and Poss work for large law firms and therefore command a different billable rate from that of a solo practitioner. Indeed, for Halbrook to assert that he is of like skill and experience as Clement and Poss calls into question the very need for Plaintiffs to retain them for the Supreme Court phase of the case rather than continue with Halbrook as their counsel.

Moreover, the information Halbrook does rely upon fails to establish that his market hourly rate is $800. For example, Exhibit D to Halbrook's declaration is a declaration of an assistant attorney general for the District of Columbia that was filed in Parker v. District of Columbia, No. 03-0213, pending in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, which identifies several law firms hired by the District in that case. Exhibit E is a Notice of Filing by the District in Parker which lists the ranges of rates of attorneys employed by the District in that case, and Exhibit G is a 2010 billing survey from the National Law Journal of attorney rates in various firms throughout the United States. None of those documents support Halbrook's contention that attorneys of like skill and experience in a similar case have a market hourly rate of $800.

Finally, Halbrook's requested rate of $800 is wildly excessive when compared to that of Alan Gura, who was the lead attorney in the companion litigation to this case, McDonald v. City of Chicago. Gura, who was also the prevailing attorney in Heller, which recognized a Second Amendment right to a handgun in the home for purposes of self-defense, has established himself as a leading attorney in Second Amendment litigation and is therefore directly comparable to Halbrook, who states numerous times throughout his declaration that he is an experienced Second Amendment litigator. See Pl. Mem., Ex. 3 at 6-8, 10. In McDonald, the Court approved Gura's motion for attorneys' fees and costs, wherein his hourly rate was $539.² See Joint Submission by Defendants City of Chicago and Village of Oak Park Pursuant to Local Rule 54.3(d)(5) dated September 26, 2011, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, at Ex. 1. Even Gura's rate of $539 is generous for Halbrook because, as discussed above, Halbrook's actual billable rate is not more than $500. Moreover, Gura was the lead attorney for the McDonald plaintiffs throughout this litigation, while Plaintiffs retained Clement and Poss to handle the Supreme Court phase of the case.

For these reasons, the Court should reject Halbrook's request for a market hourly rate of $800 and rule instead that he is entitled to an hourly rate between $225 and $500, but not more than $539.

2. Halbrook's hours are excessive and redundant and should be reduced.

Plaintiffs' motion and supporting materials also demonstrate that Halbrook's asserted 1,632.80 hours spent on this litigation are excessive and redundant. See Pl. Motion, Ex. 1 at 2. At the outset, Halbrook details in his declaration his extensive experience in litigating cases arising under the Second Amendment and the many articles and books he has written on the Second and ² Plaintiffs argue that Gura sought a fee of $790 for his work in Heller, but they make no effort to explain why that is relevant here. It is not. First, Heller addressed a different issue, namely the original meaning and understanding of the Second Amendment. Second, the work in Heller actually made this case much simpler because much of the work done in that case was used and adopted by the McDonald plurality in finding incorporation through the Due Process Clause, an outcome the Supreme Court stated was all but inevitable after Heller. See McDonald, 130 S.Ct. at 3036. Thus, the difference in Gura's rate between Heller and McDonald is easily understood.

Fourteenth Amendments. See Pl. Mem., Ex. 3 at 6-8. He repeatedly asserts that he was “uniquely qualified” to litigate the issue of incorporation of the Second Amendment against state and local action due to his “over three decades of research and writing on the Second and Fourteenth Amendments.” Id. at 6. See also id. at 8 (his specific knowledge and background “allowed [him] uniquely to contribute to the presentation of the primary issue before the courts in this case”). Indeed, he summarizes his value to the case in this manner:

To litigate this case, it was not required that I ‘read up on’ the history, intent, and understanding of the Fourteenth Amendment regarding the protection of Second Amendment rights, or on the Supreme Court’s nineteenth and twentieth century jurisprudence on that subject specifically and on incorporation of the Bill of Rights guarantees generally. For three decades, I had already been researching and publishing books and law review articles on the subject and further had litigated cases on those issues. That made it possible to prepare the NRA briefs with the utmost efficiency, saving potentially hundreds of hours, and ensuring that the most advanced research was available to the Court.

Id. at 10. Despite Halbrook’s self-described expertise in Second Amendment history and jurisprudence and incorporation of the Bill of Rights, his declaration reveals that of the 1,632 hours for which he seeks fees, Halbrook spent 1,199.60 hours litigating the merits of incorporation at the three stages of the case. See id. at Ex. B. For the reasons described below, Halbrook’s claimed hours are wildly excessive and should be reduced accordingly. See Tomazzoli v. Sheedy, 804 F.2d 93, 97 (7th Cir. 1986) (affirming district court’s reduction of an attorney’s hours because the attorney’s stated experience in a matter belied her need for the time she billed).

a. District Court and Court of Appeals

According to Halbrook’s time records, he spent 609.9 hours in pre-litigation preparations and in litigating the matter before this Court and the Seventh Circuit. See Pl. Mem., Ex. 3 at Ex. B. By comparison, Gura, who successfully litigated the case on behalf of the McDonald plaintiffs, spent only 174.3 hours at the same stages of the litigation. See Ex. A hereto at Ex. 2. In light of Halbrook's self-declared expertise in not only Second Amendment history and jurisprudence but also incorporation of the Bill of Rights, it is unreasonable for him to have spent 435.6 more hours than Gura in an action that was indistinguishable from McDonald. Indeed, the plaintiffs in all cases took the overriding position that the cases could be resolved by deciding the single dispositive legal issue (incorporation) without discovery, and all plaintiffs filed motions and briefs presenting that argument to the Court and asking for a prompt resolution. And in the Seventh Circuit, the appeals were consolidated and the matter was briefed and argued in a conventional fashion and on a single schedule as to all parties. As a result, the time spent by Halbrook in litigating this matter before this Court and the Seventh Circuit was clearly excessive, and the Court should limit Halbrook's hours to nothing more than what Gura expended in litigating before this Court and the Seventh Circuit as reflected on Gura's billing records.

And that number should be further reduced for work performed by Halbrook on tasks that were inconsequential, unsuccessful, and/or not reasonably necessary during the litigation in this Court and the Seventh Circuit. Defendants specifically object to work relating to Plaintiffs' unsuccessful opposition to reassignment of the cases in the district court,³ and Plaintiffs' drafting of an unfiled brief opposing consolidation in the Seventh Circuit. Defendants further object to work relating to Plaintiffs' unsuccessful motion for hearing en banc in the Seventh Circuit, and to work related to Plaintiffs' motions to strike Defendants' jury demands, as that issue was inconsequential to any relief ultimately attained by Plaintiffs. Finally, Defendants object to work relating to the filing of a notice of appeal that was later voluntarily dismissed by Plaintiffs.

b. Supreme Court

Halbrook seeks fees for 589.70 hours he spent on the Supreme Court phase of the case. See Pl. Mem., Ex. 3 at Ex. B. Plaintiffs, however, retained additional counsel, Goodwin Proctor and King & Spalding, to author Plaintiffs' brief and to argue the matter before the Supreme Court. Between those two firms, four attorneys (all with Supreme Court expertise) did significant work (at least 80 hours each), and at least nine other attorneys between those firms worked on the case, for a total of 482.4 hours. Thus, Plaintiffs spent a total of 1,072.1 hours on briefing and arguing the matter before the Supreme Court. By contrast, Gura's billing records reveal that he spent 405.9 hours litigating McDonald before the Supreme Court. See Ex. A hereto, Exs. 2 & 3. Gura's total hours are roughly commensurate with the total number of hours spent by Goodwin Proctor and King & Spalding combined.

Defendants, like Gura, were able to litigate the matter before the Supreme Court with dramatically less personnel than that used by Plaintiffs. Defendants' brief was written by two assistant corporation counsels with research assistance from two volunteer attorneys in the City's Law Department and attorneys at Mayer Brown, which represented Oak Park. See Declaration of Benna Ruth Solomon, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, Ex.4, ¶ 12. Defendants' brief was edited by a deputy corporation counsel and one outside counsel retained for the Supreme Court case, and the case was argued by that outside counsel, who recorded a total of only 289.2 hours for the entire representation at an hourly rate of $200. See id. ¶ 12; Declaration of James A. Feldman, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, Ex. 3, ¶ 8.

Because Gura prevailed in McDonald having spent 405.9 hours in the Supreme Court phase of the case,⁴ Plaintiffs cannot reasonably justify their expenditure of 1,072 total hours. Even though Halbrook litigated the case before this Court and the Seventh Circuit, Plaintiffs chose to hire experienced Supreme Court counsel to handle briefing in and oral argument before the Supreme Court, and their total hours for thirteen attorneys (482.4) are roughly equivalent to that expended by Gura. In Schlacher, 574 F.3d at 858, the Seventh Circuit affirmed the district court's conclusion "that it was unreasonable to require the defendant to pay for time that four attorneys had collectively put into the case because their work necessarily overlapped and one competent attorney would have sufficed." The same is true here: It was unnecessary for Halbrook to continue to log extraordinary hours when Plaintiffs retained Clement and Poss to handle the Supreme Court phase of the case. While Plaintiffs were free to allow Halbrook "to keep the meter running" even after they made the strategic decision to hire other counsel to litigate in the Supreme Court, it would be unjust to now saddle Defendants with the consequences of Plaintiffs' unnecessary staffing decision. As a result, Halbrook's time on Supreme Court matters was duplicative, unnecessary, and unreasonable, and the Court should reject his claim for 589.70 hours in its entirety.

3. Summary of Halbrook's Lodestar Calculation

In accordance with the objections and parameters set forth above, Defendants submit that Halbrook's proper fee recovery under the lodestar analysis should be no more than as follows:

⁴ Plaintiffs attempt to argue that Gura did not prevail in McDonald because the Court did not accept his primary argument that the Second Amendment is incorporated through the Privileges or Immunities Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment instead of the Due Process Clause. Pl. Mem. at 13-14. That argument is not only irrelevant to the Court's inquiry here, but it is also incorrect because there is no question that Gura did argue in favor of incorporation via the Due Process Clause as well as the Privileges or Immunities Clause.

Phase	Hours	Rate	Total
Pre-Litigation	23.3	539	$12,558.70
District Court- Merits	65.5	539	$35,304.50
Seventh Circuit-Merits	85.5	539	$46,084.50
Supreme Court	0	539	0
District Court - Fee Entitlement	24	539	$12,936.00
Seventh Circuit - Fee Entitlement	40.7	539	$21,937.30
District Court - Fee Amount ⁵	54	539	$29,106.00
TOTAL	293	539	$157,927.00

4. Halbrook's Expenses⁶

Halbrook seeks a total of $5,799.99 in expenses. See Pl. Mem, Ex. 3 at Ex. C. Defendants object to the paralegal fees which total $922.15. Paralegal fees are properly recovered as a part of attorneys' fees and are therefore calculated using the lodestar method. See, e.g., Spegon, 175 F.3d at 553-54. Plaintiffs provide no information pursuant to which Defendants or this Court can properly determine the hours spent by the paralegal(s) or the market rate(s) for the paralegal(s) performing the services or the reasonableness of either. As a result, Plaintiffs have not met their burden of proof, and the Court should therefore reject Halbrook's request for $922.15 in paralegal fees. Accordingly, Halbrook should only recover $4,877.84 in expenses.

⁵ Halbrook initially listed his time in litigating the fee amount as 54 hours, but Plaintiffs' motion increases his time to 152.2 hours. Defendants maintain that Halbrook is not entitled to any additional recovery beyond the 54 hours because such time, which occurred after Defendants notified Plaintiffs of their position on their fee request, was not reasonable.

⁶ Defendants previously stated an objection to Plaintiffs' recovery for printing expenses related to the filing of their petition for certiorari in the United States Supreme Court. See Pl. Motion., Ex. 1. Defendants withdraw that objection.

B. Objection to the Rate Submitted by Goodwin Proctor for Stephen Poss.

Plaintiffs seek a total of $207,529.62 in fees for work performed by attorneys at Goodwin Proctor. See Pl. Mem., Ex. 7.⁷ Defendants object to this amount insofar as it reflects an hourly rate of $880 for Stephen Poss. Although Plaintiffs present evidence that Poss's actual billing rate is $880, Defendants submit that his rate should be reduced. First, as set forth above, Gura, the plaintiffs' counsel in McDonald, charged an hourly rate of $539. Second, Exhibit J to Halbrook's declaration indicates that the usual hourly rate charged by an experienced Supreme Court practitioner representing a civil rights plaintiff during the period of this lawsuit is between $725 and $765, which was the rate charged by Paul M. Smith. See id., Ex. 3 at Ex. J. Accordingly, Poss's rate is excessive and should be reduced to no more than $765.

According to Defendants' calculations, the reduction in Poss's rate from $880 to $765 results in a fee award to Goodwin Proctor of $202,227.50.

C. Objections to Submissions by King and Spalding/Bancroft.

Plaintiffs seek a total fee recovery for work done by King & Spalding and Bancroft PLLC in the amount of $179,014.60. At the outset, even if the Court were not to reduce their recovery for the reasons explained below, Plaintiffs' calculations only support a fee recovery of $178,324.60.⁸ But Defendants object to even this recovery on two grounds. First, Defendants object to the claimed hourly rate of Paul Clement of $1,020. For the same reasons set forth above in Part I.B with respect to Poss, Clement's billable rate is excessive and should be reduced to at least $765, which Plaintiffs' own submissions establish as the market rate for an experienced Supreme Court practitioner during this time period.

⁷ As set forth in the Joint Statement submitted by the parties, Plaintiffs' original calculation for Goodwin's fee recovery contained several mathematical errors, and Defendants included therein the proper calculation, reduced to reflect the reduction in Poss's rate from $880 to $765, as argued herein. See Pl. Mot., Ex. A, at 6.

⁸ Plaintiffs' records only reflect the following fees and expenses: $157,433.50 in King & Spaulding fees; $1,026.10 in King & Spaulding expenses; and $19,865.00 in Bancroft fees.

Second, Defendants object to an award of fees to King & Spaulding/Bancroft for their work on post-McDonald fee litigation. That work is redundant and excessive in light of the work performed by Halbrook (Plaintiffs' primary attorney), as well as Plaintiffs' local counsel, during that phase. Thus, for the same reasons Halbrook should not recover for his work on the Supreme Court phase of the case, King & Spaulding and Bancroft should not be allowed to recover the $20,578 or the $19,865 sought, respectively, for work on the fee issue. See Schlacher, 574 F.3d at 858.

When Clements's hourly rate is reduced to $765 and the time for post-McDonald fee litigation is removed, King & Spaulding's reasonable fees and expenses total $111,202.10. Because Bancroft only worked on post-McDonald fee litigation, it should recover nothing.

D. Objections to Brenner, Ford, Monroe & Scott, Ltd. and Freeborn & Peters LLP.

Defendants object to the lodestar calculations submitted by Brenner, Ford, Monroe & Scott, Ltd. ("Brenner") and Freeborn & Peters LLP ("Freeborn"), local counsel in the Chicago and Oak Park cases, respectively. See Pl. Mem. at 3, 7.

1. Hourly Rate

As discussed supra, the burden rests with the party seeking fees to establish the market hour rate for its attorneys. With respect to Brenner, Plaintiffs fail to demonstrate that the market hourly rate for Stephen Kolodziej is $475 per hour. Kolodziej's first declaration does not establish that he has an actual billable rate. In his supplemental declaration, Kolodziej states that "he does not have a standard, fixed hourly rate" but instead varies his "fees depending upon the nature and complexity of the case, the identity, circumstances and needs of the particular client, and the client's goals in the litigation." Plaintiffs' Supplemental Memorandum in Support of Plaintiffs' Motion for Attorney's Fees ("Pl. Sup. Mem."), Kolodziej Dec., ¶ 2. He asserts that he provided services to Plaintiffs at "a discounted rate of $300 . . . motivated by a desire to assist the NRA." Id., ¶ 3. If Kolodziej does not have a standard hourly rate, it calls into question why the rate he charged Plaintiffs – $300 – is "discounted." The fact that Kolodziej billed Plaintiffs at $300 per hour – in the absence of a standard hourly rate – is strong evidence that his hourly market rate is $300.

Moreover, Kolodziej fails to submit any competent evidence that $475 is a reasonable hourly rate for an attorney primarily performing local counsel functions. He asserts, based on his "experience practicing in Chicago for 18 years," that "the market rate for attorneys with [his] level of experience handling a case of this nature in 2008-2011 was in the range of $450 to $500 per hour." Id. ¶¶ 2, 5. But Kolodziej's statements are self-serving and cannot be considered. See Blum, 465 U.S. at 895 n.11; Spagon, 175 F.3d at 556. And Kolodziej fails to offer any affidavits attesting that the hourly market rate for attorneys serving as local counsel in federal civil rights litigation in Chicago is $475.⁹

Although Defendants do not contest that Freeborn has submitted evidence of its attorneys' actual billing rates, Defendants submit that their services in the Oak Park case – along with that of ⁹ The only evidence Kolodziej cites in support of his requested hourly rate is the Laffey Matrix of the U.S. Department of Justice. Pl. Supp. Mem., Kolodziej Dec., ¶ 2 n.1. "The Laffey Matrix is a chart of hourly rates for attorneys and paralegals in the Washington, D.C. area that was prepared by the United States Attorney's Office for the District of Columbia to be used in fee-shifting cases." Pickett v. Sheridan Health Care Ctr., 664 F.3d 632, 649 (7th Cir. 2011). Although the Seventh Circuit has not officially sanctioned its use in fee-shifting cases, the "[d]istrict courts in [the Seventh Circuit] have occasionally considered the Laffey Matrix when considering the reasonableness of hourly rates for fee awards" and "have viewed it with differing levels of praise and skepticism." Id. (collecting cases). In this instance, the Court should reject Kolodziej's reliance on the Laffey Matrix because he provides no evidence that he has ever used the Laffey Matrix as a basis for his hourly rate or that he has ever, in fact, charged $475 per hour.

Kolodziej in the Chicago case – should be compensated at $300 per hour. First, that is the actual rate Kolodziej charged Plaintiffs in the Chicago case to perform local counsel functions. Second, David Sigale, who performed a similar local counsel function for Gura in McDonald, charged and received $300 per hour for his services. See Exhibit A hereto, Exs. 1, 2. Because McDonald and the present case were virtually indistinguishable from one another substantively and followed nearly identical procedural paths, Sigale’s rate, coupled with the rate Kolodziej actually charged his clients, is strong evidence that the market hourly rate for local counsel services in cases of this nature is $300.

2. Billable Hours

Defendants object to the reasonableness of the billable hours expended by Plaintiffs’ local counsel. First, to the extent Brenner and Freeborn performed any of the work identified in part I.A.2.a above, Defendants object to the hours expended by Brenner and Freeborn on those tasks. Second, Defendants object to Brenner and Freeborn each receiving a separate fee recovery for work performed on the merits after the cases were consolidated with McDonald in the Seventh Circuit. After the cases were consolidated in the Seventh Circuit, Plaintiffs filed joint briefs, and Halbrook argued the case on behalf of all Plaintiffs. Multiple local counsel were therefore unnecessary. For the same reason, Defendants object to Brenner and Freeborn each receiving a separate fee recovery for work performed on fee entitlement litigation after the Chicago and Oak Park cases were consolidated in the Seventh Circuit.

Finally, Defendants object to the reasonableness of the hours expended by Brenner and Freeborn in performing local counsel functions to the extent those hours exceed those billed by Sigale in McDonald. There can be no question that with respect to the merits litigation, McDonald is virtually indistinguishable from the instant case. In performing the local counsel function in McDonald, Sigale billed only 235.1 hours. That is strong evidence that any hours expended over that amount are unreasonable and should not be compensated. Thus, Defendants submit that both Brenner's and Freeborn's local counsel hours during the merits phase of the case should be reduced to the amount of hours expended by Sigale, as reflected on his billing records. See Ex. A hereto, Ex. 2.

3. Summary of Lodestar Calculation for Brenner and Freeborn

Based on the foregoing objections to the hourly rates and billable hours submitted by Brenner and Freeborn, Defendants submit that the following is a reasonable lodestar calculation.

a. Brenner – Individual Recovery

Phase	Hours	Rate	Total
Merits -- District Court and Seventh Circuit (pre-consolidation)	53.4	300	$16,020.00
Fee Entitlement - District Court and Seventh Circuit (pre-consolidation)	25.6	300	$7,680.00
Fee Amount - District Court	24.3	300	$7,290.00
TOTAL	103.3	300	$30,990.00

b. Freeborn – Individual Recovery

Phase	Hours	Rate	Total
Merits -- District Court and Seventh Circuit (pre-consolidation)	78.2	300	$23,460.00
Fee Entitlement - District Court and Seventh Circuit (pre-consolidation)	25.6	300	$7,680.00
Fee Amount - District Court ¹⁰	7	300	$2,100.00
TOTAL	110.8	300	$33,240.00

c. Joint Recovery by Brenner and Freeborn

Phase	Hours	Rate	Total
Merits -- Seventh Circuit (post-consolidation)	42.7	300	$12,810.00
Fee Entitlement - Seventh Circuit (post consolidation)	35.8	300	$10,740.00
TOTAL	78.5	300	$23,550.00

4. Expenses

As to expenses, Defendants do not object to the $417.10 claimed by Brenner. Defendants object to the $36,430.72 in expenses sought by Freeborn. A primary driver of that amount is legal research fees associated with work on matters to which Defendants have objected above. It is also more than 4 times the amount of expenses ($8,176.00) recovered by the McDonald plaintiffs. See Spegon, 175 F.3d at 559 (“A district court should disallow costs that are unreasonable either because they are excessive in amount or because they should not have been incurred at all.”). Although Defendants could argue that Plaintiffs’ cost recovery should be limited to that of the McDonald plaintiffs, certainly their recovery, in light of the duplicative nature of much of their work, should be no more than double those of the McDonald plaintiffs. Accordingly, Freeborn would be entitled to recover no more than $16,352.00 in expenses.

E. Objections to Cooper & Kirk.

Defendants object to the entirety of the fees and expenses ($28,576.50) claimed by Cooper & Kirk as duplicative and unnecessary. As set forth above in Part I.A, Plaintiffs were represented in the merits phase of this case by Halbrook in the district court and the Seventh Circuit and by thirteen additional lawyers from Goodwin Proctor and King & Spalding in the Supreme Court. There can be no question that these attorneys, many of whom are experienced Supreme Court litigators, were capable of representing Plaintiffs’ interests at the various stages of this case, and Plaintiffs identify no unique skill or ability that the lawyers from Cooper & Kirk possess that was essential to the litigation. And no attorney from that firm entered an appearance for Plaintiffs in the case or otherwise purported to represent Plaintiffs in court or in dealings with opposing counsel. This Court should therefore reject any fee recovery for Cooper & Kirk’s work.

F. Lodestar Summary for All Attorneys

Based on the aforementioned objections, Defendants submit that the proper recovery for Defendants using the lodestar methodology is as follows:

Name	Fees	Expenses
Stephen Halbrook	$157,927.00	$4,877.84
Goodwin Proctor	$202,227.50	0
King & Spalding	$110,176.00	$1,026.10
Brenner Ford (Individual)	$30,990.00	$417.10
Freeborn & Peters (Individual)	$33,240.00	$16,352.00
Combined Local Counsel	$23,550.00	0
TOTAL	$558,110.50	$22,673.04

Thus, Plaintiffs' proper recovery in this case, using the Lodestar methodology, is no more than $580,783.54.

II. Reduction to the Lodestar Amount Based on the Fee Recovery in McDonald

Even though the objections identified by Defendants in Part I, supra, properly reduce Plaintiff's lodestar calculation to $580,783.54, that amount should be further reduced to no more than $399,950 because that is the amount the McDonald plaintiffs petitioned for and received from this Court. Contrary to Plaintiffs' argument, see Pl. Mem. at 13, the Supreme Court stated in Hensley that after the Court determines the appropriate hourly rate and hours, that lodestar calculation can be further reduced for any number of factors, including evidence of fee "awards in similar cases." 461 U.S. at 430 n.3. See also id. at 434 n.9; People Who Care, 90 F.3d at 1310. And no case is more similar to the instant action than McDonald. They presented a single, dispositive issue: Whether the Second Amendment is incorporated through the Fourteenth Amendment. Indeed, the instant cases were so similar to McDonald that they were reassigned to this Court as related to McDonald and proceeded on identical tracks through all stages of the litigation. Accordingly, the fee recovery by the McDonald plaintiffs from the City represents the best measure of the amount of fees and expenses reasonably necessary to obtain relief in this particular litigation.

Plaintiffs attempt to distinguish their litigation effort from that of the McDonald plaintiffs, but their efforts fail. They first try to distinguish the McDonald recovery by asserting that it was done pursuant to a settlement and that the “basis of the fee settlement between defendants and McDonald counsel is unknown.” Pl. Mem at 13. As the evidence submitted by Defendants demonstrates, however, technically there was no “settlement” between McDonald and the City; McDonald submitted a fee petition pursuant to section 1988 which the City did not oppose. See Ex. A. hereto at Ex. 1. Moreover, even to the extent the McDonald plaintiffs negotiated fees with the City, the number of hours Gura billed to this case as reflected on his actual billing records – 594.70 – is only 14.5 hours more than what he submitted to and was approved by the Court. See id. at Ex. 2.

Plaintiffs also assert that Defendants’ “argument is premised on the faulty assumption that the McDonald plaintiffs litigated this case in a superior manner and that the NRA just relied on them.” Pl. Mem. at 13. This too is incorrect. First, Defendants do not take the position that Plaintiffs are not entitled to a fee or should receive a reduced fee because of the McDonald fee recovery. Second, Defendants’ argument is not founded on the quality of the representation in McDonald versus that in the instant case. Instead, the McDonald fee award demonstrates that the instant cases, which raised the very same dispositive issue and proceeded along the identical track as McDonald, could have been successfully litigated for $399,950, not the award of $2,195,323.29 Plaintiffs seek in this case.

Finally, Plaintiffs argue that their litigation effort, which principally relied upon incorporation of the Second Amendment via the Due Process Clause, is what “won the case,” not Gura’s principal argument for incorporation through the Privileges or Immunities Clause. Id. Plaintiffs’ argument is misplaced, however, because Gura, as Plaintiffs concede, did argue incorporation under the Due Process Clause in addition to his Privileges or Immunities Clause argument, and nothing in the Court’s McDonald ruling suggests that Gura’s development of the former argument was insufficient in any way. But more importantly, their argument, even if true, is a red-herring because it is premised on the faulty notion that the type of argument (i.e., Due Process versus Privileges or Immunities) is what determine the propriety of a fee award.¹¹ What is at issue is whether Plaintiffs’ fee expenditures are reasonable, and the McDonald fee recovery of $399,950 is strong evidence that Plaintiffs’ request for nearly $2.2 million in virtually indistinguishable litigation is unreasonable.

The Court should therefore reduce Plaintiffs’ lodestar calculation of $580,783.54 and award Plaintiffs no more than the McDonald fee recovery of $399,950.

¹¹ Moreover, Plaintiffs submit no evidence that development of an argument for incorporation under the Due Process Clause (which Gura did as well) requires more time than presentation of an argument under the Privileges or Immunities Clause. Indeed, given Halbrook’s self-proclaimed expertise in the former, and the lack of any real precedent on the former, one could conclude that it does not.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth herein, Defendants submit that the Court should award Plaintiffs no more than $399,950 as reasonable attorneys' fees pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1988.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFFS' UNOPPOSED MOTION FOR FEES AND COSTS

1. On June 2, 2011, the Seventh Circuit determined that Plaintiffs were prevailing parties entitled to recover attorney fees and expenses in this case pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1988.
2. The Seventh Circuit's mandate issued on June 24, 2011, and was entered on this Court's docket June 27, 2011.
3. Federal courts employ the "lodestar" method for determining an attorney fee recovery under Section 1988. The "lodestar" is calculated by multiplying the reasonable amount of hours worked by a reasonable hourly fee, with some adjustments not here at issue in appropriate cases. Perdue v. Kenny A., 130 S. Ct. 1662 (2010); Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424 (1983).
4. Local Rule 54.3 sets forth a procedure governing the resolution of fee disputes. Defendant requires that the fee dispute be resolved by motion, and Plaintiffs have no objection to proceeding accordingly.

5. Pursuant to Local Rule 54.3, the parties have agreed on the Joint Statement referenced in Local Rule 54.3(e), which must be attached to the fee motion pursuant to Local Rule 54.3(f). See Exhibit A.

6. Local Rule 54.3(f) further provides: "Unless otherwise allowed by the court, the motion and any supporting or opposing memoranda shall limit their argument and supporting evidentiary matter to disputed issues." As no disputed issues remain among the parties, pursuant to the Rule, Plaintiffs cannot offer argument and evidence beyond the Joint Statement.

7. As Plaintiffs are entitled to their fees and costs, this unopposed motion should be granted, and Plaintiffs should be awarded their fees and costs as set forth in the Joint Statement.

No. 08 C 3697

Judge Milton I. Shadur
Magistrate Judge Keys

DECLARATION OF JAMES A. FELDMAN

1. I, James A. Feldman, have personal knowledge of the following facts stated herein and could and would testify thereto if called as a witness in this matter:

2. I am an attorney licensed to practice law in the District of Columbia since 1983. I am also admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the United States, the United States Courts of Appeals for the District of Columbia and Seventh Circuits, and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

3. I currently operate a solo practice in Washington, D.C., specializing in Supreme Court and appellate litigation. In addition to my law practice, I also am currently a Lecturer in Law at the University of Pennsylvania Law School, where I teach a seminar on Supreme Court Practice and Process. In the Spring of 2011, I taught a seminar on Supreme Court Litigation as an adjunct faculty member at Georgetown University Law Center.

4. From 1989 to 2006, I was an Assistant to the Solicitor General at the United States Department of Justice, an office with responsibility for representing the federal government in cases in the United States Supreme Court. I have argued 46 cases before the Court and have been primarily responsible for briefing more than one hundred others on the merits and for many hundreds of certiorari-stage briefs in opposition and other filings. From 1987-1989, I served with Judge Lawrence Walsh as an Associate Independent Counsel with the Office of Independent Counsel (Iran-Contra). From 1986-1987, I worked at the law firm of Wilmer Cutler & Pickering (now WilmerHale). I graduated from the Harvard Law School, where I was President of the Harvard Law Review. I also served as a law clerk to Justice William J. Brennan, Jr., of the United States Supreme Court, and Judge J. Skelly Wright of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit.

5. I have been awarded the Attorney General's Distinguished Service Award, the Department of Justice John Marshall Award for Outstanding Legal Achievement for Handling of Appeals, and the Federal Bar Association's Justice Tom C. Clark Award for outstanding accomplishments as a federal government lawyer.

6. Through my experience litigating in the Supreme Court and working with others who do so, I am familiar with the amount of work necessary to properly research and prepare briefs, present oral argument, and otherwise effectively litigate cases in the Supreme Court, including cases having factual and/or legal issues or complexities similar to the instant case. I am also familiar with how to effectively staff such cases, including the number of attorneys necessary to assign to a matter in order to effectively litigate it in the Supreme Court.

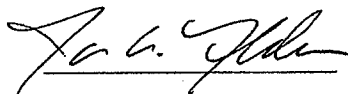

7. I was retained to assist Respondents Chicago and Oak Park in litigating this case in the United States Supreme Court. My work included performing legal research; reviewing Petitioner's and NRA's briefs, the 32 amicus briefs submitted in support of Petitioner, the 2 amicus briefs submitted on behalf of neither party, and the 17 amicus briefs submitted in support of Respondents, and determining which briefs and arguments merited response; and participating in drafting and editing the merits brief submitted by Respondents. I also presented oral argument on behalf of those Respondents.

8. Attached as Exhibit A hereto is a true and correct copy of the invoices I submitted in connection with my representation of Respondents, which detail the work I performed and the number of hours spent on that work. I charged an hourly rate of $200.00, and I billed for all of the work reflected in Exhibit A. The total number of hours charged is 289.2, and the total fee charged is $57,840.00. I also charged $409.60 in expenses. I have been fully paid by the City for these charges. The nature and amount of work reflected in Exhibit A was appropriate and permitted me to effectively represent Respondents in the Supreme Court.

9. Prior to my work on this case, I did not have experience litigating matters involving the Second Amendment or the incorporation of rights through either the Fourteenth Amendment's Due Process Clause or Privileges or Immunities Clause.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my knowledge.

EXHIBIT A-4

3. Prior to joining the Law Department in 1991, I served for five years as the Chief Counsel of the State and Local Legal Center in Washington, D.C. That organization represented seven (and ultimately eight) national organizations of state and local government officials, including the U.S. Conference of Mayors, the National Governor's Association, the National Conference of State Legislatures, and others. In that capacity, I filed just short of 100 amicus briefs in the Supreme Court in cases affecting state and local governments. And for five years before that, I served as an Attorney-Advisor in the Office of Legal Counsel of the U.S. Department of Justice. That office provides advice to the President, the Attorney General, and other Cabinet officials on issues of federal law. The prior two years I served as a law clerk to Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White and Judge James L. Oakes of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit.

4. I have argued at least 23 cases before the Seventh Circuit and three cases before the Supreme Court. I have also supervised the legal work on more than 1,854 appellate briefs for the City.

5. The Appeals Division comprises a Deputy Corporation Counsel, a Chief Assistant Corporation Counsel, a Senior Counsel, and approximately seven or eight Assistant Corporation Counsel. Typically, each appeal is assigned to a single Assistant Corporation Counsel or Senior Counsel, and both the Deputy and the Chief Assistant Corporation Counsel work on every appeal.

6. Through my experience, I am familiar with the amount of work necessary to research and prepare briefs, present oral argument, and otherwise effectively litigate cases in both the Supreme Court and the Seventh Circuit, including cases having legal issues or complexities similar to the instant case. As a result, I am also familiar with how to staff such cases, including the number of attorneys necessary for effective litigation.

7. It is extremely unusual for me to assign more than one Assistant Corporation Counsel to a case. In general, I find it inefficient, and I believe that a better brief can be produced if one attorney takes longer to draft a brief than if the work is divided up. In more than 20 years, I can recall only four cases in which more than one Assistant Corporation Counsel was assigned to a case at the same time (this excludes briefs in which only a week or less was allowed to prepare our brief, cases in which an attorney left or was leaving the Division, and other unusual situations). This was one of the exceptions, although not because of the work necessary in the Seventh Circuit. Instead, my decision to allow one of the attorneys who handled the case in the district court to work on the appellate brief along with an Assistant Corporation in the Appeals Division was intended to afford the experience to him and ensure that he would be up to speed if the case went to the Supreme Court.

8. The appeals at issue involved three consolidated lawsuits challenging various restrictions that the City and the Village of Oak Park placed on the possession of firearms, including the ban of handguns. The appellants filed their opening briefs in the Seventh Circuit on January 28, 2009, and five amicus briefs in support of the appellants were filed by February 6, 2009.

9. Although the two Assistant Corporation Counsel assigned to this case had done some research on issues we believed would be involved, no one concentrated exclusively on this case until mid-February because the Assistants assigned to the case were working on other cases. Once the draft was prepared, I reviewed and edited the brief and considered comments on the draft provided by counsel for the Village of Oak Park as well as amici for the City. Our brief was filed on April 30, 2009. I also coordinated the review of four amicus briefs on behalf of the City.

10. I argued the case before the Seventh Circuit on May 26, 2009. I stood for one moot court on May 21, 2009. I estimate that I spent approximately 15 hours preparing in advance of the moot court and another 15-20 hours between the moot court and the argument.

11. The petitions for certiorari were filed on June 3 and 9, 2009. Our brief in opposition was filed on August 5, 2009. The extension of time in which to file was requested because of other work I was handling for two other Supreme Court cases as well as developments expected in the cases claimed to be in conflict with the Seventh Circuit's decision. We also devoted some time to reviewing the eight amicus briefs filed in support of the petitions.

12. Some work was done on our brief as soon as the Supreme Court granted certiorari. The same two Assistant Corporation Counsel who worked on the case in the Seventh Circuit continued to work on the case. Neither worked full-time on the case until after McDonald and the NRA filed their briefs on November 16, 2009. Thirty-two amicus briefs were submitted in support of McDonald and the NRA. In addition to the two Assistant Corporation Counsel, two first-year volunteer attorneys in the Law Department and attorneys at Mayer Brown, which represented Oak Park, contributed some research. I reviewed and edited the draft of respondents' brief. I was also involved in coordinating 16 of the 17 amicus briefs filed in support of respondents.

13. For the Supreme Court proceeding, the City also employed outside counsel, James A. Feldman, to assist with preparing respondents' brief. At the time the case was pending in the Supreme Court, the City was the respondent in Lewis v. City of Chicago, No. 08-974, also pending in the Supreme Court, on nearly the same exact schedule. The cases were granted the same day; the briefs were filed 16 days apart; and the cases were argued eight days apart. In ordinary circumstances, supervising the filing of two Supreme Court merits briefs and presenting two oral arguments, in addition to running the Appeals Division, might have been do-able even on that schedule, but beginning September 4, 2009, the other supervisor in Appeals began a nearly four-month maternity leave. She returned to the office on December 28, two days before our brief was due. When it became clear that the cases would be argued in the same session, I asked Mr. Feldman to argue McDonald before the Supreme Court.

14. Prior to my work on this case, I had never worked on any case involving the Second Amendment or the incorporation of rights through either the Fourteenth Amendment's Due Process Clause or Privileges or Immunities Clause, nor had I given these issues much thought.

15. The City's staffing in both the Seventh Circuit and Supreme Court cases was sufficient to address adequately and effectively the issues raised in those appeals.

16. Attorneys in the Appeals Division or other attorneys in the Law Department working on an appeal do not precisely keep time of the hours they spend on our cases. We do have daily calendars and other documents, such as motions for extension of time in this and other cases, that disclose the general time-frame in which we are working on any particular matter.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my knowledge.

Judge Milton I. Shadur

AFFIDAVIT OF RANJIT HAKIM

I, Ranjit Hakim, state as follows:

1. I am an associate in the law firm of Mayer Brown LLP. My office is located at 71 S. Wacker Dr., Chicago, IL 60606.
2. Mayer Brown LLP was retained by the Village of Oak Park (the "Village") to represent the Village, on a pro bono basis, in the above-captioned litigation brought by the National Rifle Association.
3. The City of Chicago was also sued by the National Rifle Association in a similar action.
4. Mayer Brown LLP coordinated closely with the City of Chicago on joint defenses and briefing.
5. The cases against the City of Chicago and against the Village were consolidated on appeal.

6. Although Mayer Brown LLP generated no bills in connection with this matter, the attorneys staffed to this matter kept time records that were maintained in the ordinary course by an accounting function. This function also tracked expenses related to this matter. Attached to this affidavit is a true and correct copy of the costs associated with defending the Village in this litigation. Some of the verbal descriptions of time have been redacted to protect privileged attorney-client communications and privileged & confidential litigation strategies.

7. The hourly rates reflected in the attached chart accurately show the hourly rates Mayer Brown LLP charges and collects for its attorneys.

Signed under the penalties of perjury this 26 day of September, 2011.
