Facts and Circumstances Test

facts and circumstances test Pew is driven by the power of knowledge to solve today's most challenging problems. Pew applies a rigorous, analytical approach to improve public policy, inform the public and stimulate civic life. Pew qualifies as publicly supported because it meets the "10% plus facts and circumstances" test under Reg. 1.170A-9(e)(3) in the following respects: 1. 10% of support limitation. Pew's public support fraction is 24%, well above the 10% threshold. Since Pew became a public charity in 2004, this fraction has grown annually and is approaching one-third public support. 2. Attraction of public support. Pew is organized and operated to attract new and additional support on a continuous basis. Pew maintains a full-time development staff that is actively involved in seeking financial support from diverse sources on an on-going basis. 3. Sources of support. Pew is supported by a diverse and representative group of donors. During fiscal year 2009, Pew received grants and contributions from more than 121 donors, including individuals, public charities, private foundations, corporations and government entities. Its programs and activities have broad appeal to members of the public that share an interest in its many different areas of focus. 4. Representative governing body. Pew is governed by a fourteen member board of directors. The members of Pew's board have backgrounds in philanthropy and share a deep and abiding commitment to Pew's mission and programs. A majority of the directors of the board are independent and do not have a family relationship. 5. Availability of public facilities or services, public participation in programs or policies. Pew conducts a variety of programs and activities that are designed to inform the public, the media and policymakers about the subjects of its research and analysis. Pew's research reports are disseminated at conferences, seminars and other public forums, and are posted on Pew's website, www.pewtrusts.org. During 2008, Pew released at least 25 research reports and sponsored at least 40 conferences, seminars on subjects such as trends in early education, voting reforms, financial reform, ocean protection, and global public opinion trends and analysis.
