irreparably injured absent a stay; (3) whether issuance of the stay will substantially injure the other parties interested in the proceeding; and (4) where the public interest lies. "Each factor, however, need not be given equal weight." Presidio Components, Inc. v. Am. Tech. Ceramics Corp., No. 14-cv-2061-H-BGS, 2018 WL 4928041, at *3 (S.D. Cal. Oct. 10, 2018) (citations omitted). The "likelihood of success in the appeal is not a rigid concept." Id. "Therefore, to obtain a stay pending appeal, a movant must establish a strong likelihood of success on appeal, or, failing that, "'demonstrate a substantial case on the merits,' provided the other factors militate in movant's favor." Id. (citations omitted).

These considerations are similar to the factors an appellate court should weigh in deciding whether to issue a stay. Planned Parenthood of Greater Texas Surgical Health Servs. v. Abbott, 571 U.S. 1061, 134 S. Ct. 506 (2013) (Scalia, J., concurring in denial of application to stay) ("When deciding whether to issue a stay, the Fifth Circuit had to consider four factors: (1) whether the State made a strong showing that it was likely to succeed on the merits, (2) whether the State would have been irreparably injured absent a stay, (3) whether issuance of a stay would substantially injure other parties, and (4) where the public interest lay. The first two factors are "the most critical.") (quoting Nken v. Holder, 556 U.S. 418, 434 (2009))).

A Substantial Case on the Merits

The Attorney General has not made a strong showing, to this Court, that he is likely to succeed on the merits. Nevertheless, both sides are aware that other courts have come to contrasting conclusions on similar issues. Of course, facts matter and the facts are different. Strong and thoughtful views may be found on both sides of the important legal questions presented by this case. This Court's decision cuts a less-traveled path and the outcome is very important to all citizens.

"There are many ways to articulate the minimum quantum of likely success necessary to justify a stay — be it a 'reasonable probability' or 'fair prospect,' . . .

'a substantial case on the merits,' . . . [or] that 'serious legal questions are raised.' We think these formulations are essentially interchangeable, and that none of them demand a showing that success is more likely than not. Regardless of how one expresses the requirement, the idea is that in order to justify a stay, a petitioner must show, at a minimum, that she has a substantial case for relief on the merits." Leiva-Perez v. Holder, 640 F.3d 962, 967–68 (9th Cir. 2011) (citations omitted). In this case, the Attorney General has demonstrated a substantial case on the merits, which favors a stay.

Irreparable Injury to the State

The Attorney General says that a state suffers irreparable injury whenever its laws are enjoined. There is strong support for that claim. Abbott, 571 U.S. 1061, 134 S. Ct. at 506 ("With respect to the second factor, the Court of Appeals reasoned that the State faced irreparable harm because "any time a State is enjoined by a court from effectuating statutes enacted by representatives of its people, it suffers a form of irreparable injury." Maryland v. King, 133 S.Ct. 1, 3 (2012) (Roberts, C.J., in chambers) (quoting New Motor Vehicle Bd. of Cal. v. Orrin W. Fox Co., 434 U.S. 1345, 1351 (1977) (Rehnquist, J., in chambers))."). The Ninth Circuit, however, has never adopted this view. Latta v. Otter, 771 F.3d 496, 500 n.1 (9th Cir. 2014) ("Individual justices, in orders issued from chambers, have expressed the view that a state suffers irreparable injury when one of its laws is enjoined. See Maryland v. King, 133 S.Ct. 1, 3 (2012) (Roberts, C.J., in chambers); New Motor Vehicle Bd. of California v. Orrin W. Fox Co., 434 U.S. 1345, 1351 (1977) (Rehnquist, J., in chambers). No opinion for the Court adopts this view.").

The Attorney General may be correct, but it does not end the inquiry. "As the cited authority suggests, a state may suffer an abstract form of harm whenever one of its acts is enjoined. To the extent that is true, however, it is not dispositive of the balance of harms analysis. If it were, then the rule requiring "balance" of "competing claims of injury" would be eviscerated." Indep. Living Ctr. of S.

California, Inc. v. Maxwell-Jolly, 572 F.3d 644, 658 (9th Cir. 2009), vacated on other grounds and remanded sub nom. Douglas v. Indep. Living Ctr. of S. California, Inc., 565 U.S. 606 (2012). "Federal courts instead have the power to enjoin state actions, in part, because those actions sometimes offend federal law provisions [or in this case, one of the Bill of Rights], which, like state statutes, are themselves 'enactments of its people or their representatives." Id. (emphasis in original) (citation omitted).

Injury to Other Parties

Without question, entering a stay pending appeal will harm the Plaintiffs, and all others like the Plaintiffs (who are many), who would choose to acquire and possess a firearm magazine holding more than 10 rounds for self-defense. "It is well established that the deprivation of constitutional rights 'unquestionably constitutes irreparable injury." Rodriguez v. Robbins, 715 F.3d 1127, 1144 (9th Cir. 2013) (quoting Melendres v. Arpaio, 695 F.3d 990, 1002 (9th Cir. 2012), quoting Elrod v. Burns, 427 U.S. 347, 373 (1976)).

Where the Public Interest Lay

The State's interest in enforcing a law merges with the public interest, where the law is valid. Nken, 556 U.S. at 435. At the same time, however, "it is always in the public interest to prevent the violation of a party's constitutional rights." Am. Beverage Ass'n v. City & Cty. of San Francisco, 916 F.3d 749, 758 (9th Cir. 2019) (quoting Melendres, 695 F.3d at 1002).

Discussion

The first factor weighs in favor of staying the injunction. The second factor weighs heavily in opposing directions and thus amounts to a draw. The last two factors weigh against staying the injunction. The first two factors are the most critical. Abbott, 571 U.S. 1061. The result of these four factors slightly favors a stay pending appeal.

The Court understands that strong emotions are felt by people of good will on both sides of the Constitutional and social policy questions. The Court understands that thoughtful and law-abiding citizens can and do firmly hold competing opinions on firearm magazine restrictions. These concerns auger in favor of judicial deliberation. There is an immeasurable societal benefit of maintaining the immediate status quo while the process of judicial review takes place.

The power to grant a stay pending appeal is part of a court's "traditional equipment for the administration of justice," and is "a power as old as the judicial system of the nation." Nken, 556 U.S. at 427. A partial stay will permit the appellate court to bring its considered judgment to bear -- judgment that takes time. "The choice for a reviewing court should not be between justice on the fly" or a moot ceremony. Id. A stay pending appeal is a means of ensuring that the reviewing court(s) can thoughtfully fulfill the role of review. Id. A stay "simply suspend[s] judicial alteration of the status quo." Id. at 429. In this case, that means staying the injunction on subsections (a) and (b) of § 32310 which has been in force since 2000 and continuing in place the injunction on subsection (c) and (d) entered by this Court on June 29, 2017, pending the outcome of the appeal.

In layman's terms, the State of California and the law enforcement agencies therein will be free to re-start the enforcement of Calif. Penal Code § 32310 (a) and (b) which currently prohibits, among other things, any person in the state from manufacturing, importing into the state, offering for sale, giving, lending, buying, or receiving a firearm magazine able to hold more than 10 rounds (as defined by Calif. Penal Code § 16740). This will continue until the appeal proceedings conclude or the stay is modified or lifted.

At the same time, the State of California and the law enforcement agencies therein will remain enjoined (or prevented) from enforcing Calif. Penal Code § 32310 (c) and (d) which would have criminalized the simple possession of a firearm magazine able to hold more than 10 rounds and required disposing of such

1 magazines. This will also continue until the appeal proceedings conclude or the 2 stay is modified or lifted. 3 Both parties indicate in briefing that persons and business entities in California 4 may have manufactured, imported, sold, or bought magazines able to hold more 5 than 10 rounds since the entry of this Court's injunction on March 29, 2019 and in 6 reliance on the injunction. Indeed, it is the reason that the Attorney General seeks 7 urgent relief in the form of a stay pending appeal. Both parties suggest that it is 8 appropriate to fashion protection for these law-abiding persons. 9 THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Judgment is stayed in part 10 pending final resolution of the appeal from the Judgment. The permanent 11 injunction enjoining enforcement of California Penal Code § 32310 (a) and (b) is hereby stayed, effective 5:00 p.m., Friday, April 5, 2019. 12 13 IT IS HEREBY FURTHER ORDERED that the preliminary injunction issued 14 on June 29, 2017, enjoining enforcement of California Penal Code § 32310 (c) and 15 (d) shall remain in effect. 16 IT IS HEREBY FURTHER ORDERED that the permanent injunction 17 enjoining enforcement of California Penal Code § 32310 (a) and (b) shall remain in 18 effect for those persons and business entities who have manufactured, imported, 19 sold, or bought magazines able to hold more than 10 rounds between the entry of 20 this Court's injunction on March 29, 2019 and 5:00 p.m., Friday, April 5, 2019. 21 Dated: April 4, 2019 22 23 United States District Judge 24 25 26 27
