Strong gun laws in NY haven't been enough to stop the gun violence that rips communities of color apart every day. Today, I'm announcing my plans as Attorney General to stop gun violence & take on the NRA, gun manufacturers, retailers & banks that fund these weapons of death

I'm sure defunding police will work very well with this.

Strong gun laws haven't stopped gun violence because strong gun laws don't stop gun violence. Leaders who think they do, and who are openly hostile to things that stop unlawful violence, like armed self-defense & supporting the police—are part of the problem, not the solution.

The NRA doesn't fund gun manufacturing, distribution, retail sales, or banking of firearms, Tish.

If some of the strictest gun laws and regulations, in the nation, haven't done shit to stop gun violence why would doing the exact same thing but more be any different?

Thank you for your announcement on your plans of attempting to dissolve gun owners rights, as of today I will now become a lifelong member of @NRA all thanks to you. 😊

I didn't know the NRA was supplying the criminals with guns, you must be thinking of fast and furious ? 🤔🤔

As another leftist works toward taking away the rights of law abiding citizens, her state continues to pull back law enforcement and let killers kill, purposely ignoring criminals - even setting them free to kill again.

Does anyone in NY care about the people there?
